CHILDREN'S CHORAL IDEA ELABORATED

Harry Girard in Second Article Points to City Benefits

MUST BE ARTISTIC

Would Aid in Making Community Music Center of Importance

The possibilities for good that lie back of a community organization for a May Music Festival and a Children's Choral Crusade, presented in a recent article in the Glendale Press, by Harry Girard, has aroused so much interest, that more information has been requested of the Press.

The second article upon the subject, written by Mr. Girard which follows, will be followed by a third, going even further into the details. Mr. Girard has worked out his proposition on a business basis which carries conviction.

The second communication given out today by Mr. Girard follows:

"'And a little child shall lead them.'

"In seeking for something tangible, or I might say 'concrete' for an annual event to be produced by a municipality there are three objects to be attained, else the result will be failure.

"1.—Let us for the time being, call it 'the event.' If it is to be produced annually, it must have a continual and unlimited supply of new genius, new enthusiasm, and untold quantities of courageous cooperation, else as time rolls on it will be consumed by the fire of its own ambition.

"2.—The event must be so originally artistic and be of so dignified a nature, that the outside

COMPLAINT DEPT. OPENS IN CITY FIGHT ON P. E.

Transportation Manager Wants Affidavits of Conditions

After another meeting with the public utilities board of Los Angeles yesterday, in which he made an attempt to learn the decision of that body regarding the application of Glendale to operate a municipal bus line between Glendale and Los Angeles, C. D. Gulick, transportation manager for the city, announced that it was his opinion that more evidence of unsatisfactory service on the part of the Pacific Electric would have to be filed with the board before it would take action.

After a conference with City Manager W. H. Reeves, Mr. Gulick stated today that he was authorized to make an appeal to the people of Glendale for assistance in the fight to lower transportation rates between the two cities. He is asking that reliable citizens of Glendale file written affidavits or make statements that they will be willing to tell before the board of public utilities regarding the condition of street cars operating between Glendale and Los Angeles, whether the service is adequate to furnish seats for passengers during the rush hours, how long passengers are required to wait between cars, where they are required to wait, the condition of the waiting room in Los Angeles, and along that line.

These affidavits will be submitted to the board of public utilities to prove to that body that the people of Glendale are not satisfied with the service that is given in Glendale and are not satisfied with the present fare. Mr. Gulick also includes in his appeal for affidavits and testimony regarding the car service in and out of this city a request for pictures, if such are available, illustrating the crowded condition of the street cars and the number of people that congregate at the stopping places along the line, waiting for cars.

Mr. Gulick stated after the visit to the board of public utilities yesterday he believed that before the board would grant a permit to operate the bus line they would require a mass of testimony from the people of Glendale to prove that the car service here is unsatisfactory and that the fare charged is too high in comparison to the service rendered.

The board of public utilities announced yesterday that they could not give a decision on the bus permits until Mr. Leeds, a member of the board, returns from a business trip to Arizona. They said that the board had agreed not to vote on any matter of importance unless all members of the board were present.

Three Inches of Flies Dead Rats and Gophers All in Bootleg Whisky

Purchasers of bootleg whisky would learn something to their advantage if they would listen to F. A. Hazeltine, new prohibition agent in this district. He says that he has found stills where dead rats and dead gophers and three inches of flies were all stirred together in the vats. If this is a sample of bootleg whisky such as is sold in this part of the country, then drinking men had better pause a moment and reflect.

You will find more about this on the editorial page in the comment on the day's news.

James W. Foley in "The Listening Post" tonight asks this question, "How do you look at life?" Do you ever stop to think what it means to be alive?" Then he answers the question in his philosophical way which is always interesting and always educational.

There is a particular snap to the editorials this evening and Dr. Frank Crane in his column tells you how to reduce—not expenses but weight.

There are other features, including John Pilgrim and Della Stewart, poetry, wise sayings and scientific facts.

MRS. SADLER HEAD RED CROSS RELIEF

Again Undertakes Chairmanship in Near East Emergency Work

Now that the Glendale Chapter of the American Red Cross has responded to the call of the Pacific division for production work on behalf of the destitute of Central Europe and the near east, Mrs. Sadler who directed the production department in the manufacture of garments for many months during the world war, has consented to act as chairman while the present emergency work is in progress. The next meeting will be at the home of Mrs. John Robert White, Wednesday, March 15, when the ladies will work on layettes. Every woman interested is invited to come whether a member of the chapter or not. The workers will bring sandwiches and hot tea and coffee will be served at noon.

President Signs Bill to Aid Farm Marketing

President Harding

President Harding is shown signing the Capper-Volstead bill, which permits agricultural organizations to form greater co-operative marketing bodies. The farmers want to unite to do away with the middleman's profits and enable themselves to realize a greater profit on thier grain and produce. The official title of the new law is the Capper-Volstead Farmers' Co-operative Market Bill.

KNIGHTS TEMPLAR RALLY TO ELECT GRAND WARDEN

To Finance Delegation in Support of Perry Widener

The chief item of business discussed at the Glendale Commandery, Knights Templar, Monday evening, was ways and means of sending delegates to the grand encampment to be held the last of April in New Orleans and which occurs only once in three years.

The organization decided to engage J. Whitcomb Brougher of Los Angeles for a lecture to be given in the near future and then assess each member $5 for four tickets to be used for himself and members of his family, or friends whom he might choose to invite, and thus keep the matter within the Commandery.

This encampment is of special interest to Commanderies of Southern Califronia for the reason that Sir Knight Perry Widener, past grand commander of the state, is a candidate for the office of Junior Grand Warden in the grand encampment of the United States.

Mr. Widener was closely associated with the formation of the commandery here and it was due to his good offices as "a friend at court" that the charter was secured. For that reason this organization is particularly anxious to send its two delegates to support his candidacy, and the same feeling animates all the chapters in this part of the state. Pasadena, Long Beach and Hollywood commanderies are planning to send drill teams, and No. 43 of Los Angeles will send a band. Southern California will therefore have a splendid and influential representation.

CHRISTIAN CALLING CONFERENCE PLAN DISCUSSED

Meeting Held Decides to Begin Work at First Methodist Church

Great plans were made Monday at a committee meeting for the annual Christian Calling conference to be held in Glendale, March 25th and 26th under the auspices of the State Y. M. C. A.

The opening meeting will be held at the First Methodist church Saturday afternoon, March 25. and will be followed by a supper in the banquet hall of the church.

Mr. Cole, state boys' secretary, was present at the meeting last night and at that time gave the program for the conference and also spoke of the responsibility vested in Glendale to entertain the 100 delegates that will come from all parts of Southern California.

One of the important speakers at this conference will be Harry O. Hill, state secretary of Y. M. C. A. work and he has a wonderful message for the boys. Another speaker is George Gleason, head of Y. M. C. A. work in Japan, and who is here now, having come with the Japanese delegation to the peace conference in Washington, acting in the capacity of adviser. He has just recently written a book that has attracted a great deal of attention, entitled "What Shall I Think of Japan." His talk will be on "What Led

BONUS BILL NOW BEFORE THE HOUSE

Ways and Means Committee Pass Measure Up to Representatives

PRACTICALLY SAME

Relatives of War Victims Are Eliminated in Awards

WASHINGTON, March 7.—President Harding "stands pat" against any method of providing a soldier bonus except through the sales tax, it was officially announced through the White House today.

Just before announcement of Harding's attitude the house ways and means committee approved a soldier bonus bill and prepared to introduce it into the house.

The bill approved provides in substance:

1—Cash for men whose readjusted pay runs under $50.

2—Insurance certificates with a loan provision to needy soldiers, who can get 50 per cent advance at once from a bank.

3—Options in the way of vocational training, farm land grants or home building aid.

Postponement is the only alternative to the sales tax which President Harding will permit, it was stated on highest authority.

The President nas not even given the new certificate plan serious study, seeing insurmountable difficulties on the surface of the plan. It was emphatically stated that the President has in nowise changed the viey set forth recently in the Fordney letter and that he

ARTHUR H. DIBBERN ELECTED EXALTED RULER OF ELKS

Annual Election Brings Out Good Natured Rivalry of Leaders

Monday was an important night at the Glendale Elks' Lodge it being the annual election. There was a little good natured rivalry for a few of the offices but no real contest, the election resulting as follows:

Exalted Ruler, Arthur H. Dibbern; Esteemed Leading Knight, James Apffel; Esteemed Loyal Knight, Earl S. Patterson; Esteemed Lecturing Knight, Gerald A. Dockeray; secretary, W. M. Kimball; treasurer, Norman Nelson; tiler, J. W. Headlee; trustee for 3 years, J. E. Wimmer.

Delegates selected to attend the grand lodge were Alfred F. Priest, the present exalted ruler, and Peter Ferry who goes as alternate.

The appointive offices will not be filled until April 3 when the officers elect will be installed and when committees will be named.

The election was practically the only business of the meeting. The next Elks' social stunt in prospect is what is known as the annual green dance set for Saturday the 18th and so called because the date so closely approximates St. Patrick's day. The affair will be for Elks and their ladies only, and the committee in charge is planning interesting features.

$1,000,000 STOLEN BY ARMY MEN

Graft in Sales at Camp Kearney Results in Indictments

OFFICERS INVOLVED

Story Before Federal Jury by Department of Justice

LOS ANGELES, March 7.—The federal grand jury has been convened for Friday, when it will be asked to indict two army officers and four Los Angeles business men on charges of having carried out an alleged million-dollar swindle in connection with the sale of government property at San Diego, the United Press was told authoritatively today.

One of the army officers has the rank of a field officer, it was stated.

Department of justice agents uncovered the alleged fraud, which involved the auction of government goods at Camp Kearney, near San Diego. Goods said to have been worth more than one million dollars were sold for $150,000, according to the story to be laid before the grand jury.

Investigators claim that two of the men implicated have given them written statements amounting to confessions. They said the accused men already are preparing their defense.

The alleged plot to defraud the government of upwards of $850,000 was hatched in a San Diego hotel, it was claimed. A dictaphone planted in a room occupied by the Los Angeles men was said to have

MERCHANDISING EXPERT TALKS TO CREDIT MEN

Max J. Hammel, Guest of Association, Discusses Cooperation

Choosing as his subject the topic, "Business Cooperation," Max J. Hammel of the advertising and merchandising firm of Hammel Sutphen and company, gave a brief talk to the members of the Glendale Credit association at their weekly meeting and luncheon yesterday. He told of the advantages to be gained by the merchants through cooperation in business.

An announcement of a "Merchants' Dollar Day Sale" on Friday and Saturday of this week.

This was one of the best attended meetings that the Glendale Credit association has ever held. There were 50 members present. Each week the attendance at the meetings increases and the membership, aided by the educational program of the association is increasing to a notable degree.

C. E. Neale, president of the organization announced that on next Tuesday night H. W. Arbury of the community service will speak at the chamber of commerce at 8 p. m. He will talk on the work being done by the organization he is representing and the work that it hopes to do in Glendale.

Concealed Charges

"Charges" have been made by local detective sergeants against Chief of Police Martin.

Charges is a vague, indefinite allegation, damaging by inference to the individual to whom they allude; damaging to the community in which they are made, and the concealment of them is most damaging of all, because concealment or suppression of the matter is impossible and leads to insinuations, infinitely worse than publicity could produce.

Already the matter has been a subject of street alk. Already the Los Angeles newspapers have printed it and the utmost damage has been done in that regard.

If the council does not believe the charges have a basis they should act upon them definitely and at once.

If they believe there is a basis they should make the charges public and then future action would be sustained by the public.

If there is no foundation for these mysterious charges, then the men who have made them should be accorded public condemnation so severe that it will be considered ever afterward as a serious matter to bring unfounded charges against a public officer of the city.

But concealment, suppression, that neither conceal nor suppress, get nothing, nowhere, rouse suspicion as to the motive of the council and injures the community.

The "committee of the whole" habit can be overdone.

Incidentally, and of particular significance, the fact that those who bring the charges have not shown a desire to take the public into their confidence does not strengthen any presumption of their validity.

Rich Widow Swindled Out of $375,000

Mrs. Lillian N. Duke
Alfred E. Lindsay

Through promises of big profits in stock transactions, Alfred E. Lindsay, of Nyack, N. Y., is accused by numerous persons of having swindled them out of $700,000. Included among those who claim to have been victimized by Lindsay are Mrs. Lillian N. Duke, widow of the millionaire tobacco manufacturer, and Carlotta Nillson, winsome actress. Mrs. Duke, shown in this picture, has filed suit to recover $375,000, her entire personal fortune, of which, she alleges, Lindsay (shown in the inset) swindled her.

GENERAL SURVEY OF CITY PLANNED BY COMMITTEE

Civics Unit of Chamber of Commerce to Get Data

Because of the illness of some of the members a full attendance was lacking at the meeting of the civics committee of the chamber of commerce, of which Dr. Jessie Russell is chairman, and which was held Monday night.

A number of matters were discussed, however, among others the community service proposition, as submitted by Mr. Arbury, which involves organized recreation and the putting on of a three months' demonstration program. The committee indorsed the project and will make favorable recommendations to the directors of the chamber at their meeting today.

Additional bridges and the main artery outlets from Glendale were also discussed, and the committee decided to make no recommendations until a general survey has been made of the situation.

Some tentative discussion of parks and the improvements to be made in the present site and others to be acquired, was had, but no conclusions were reached.

The next meeting of the civics committee will be held the last of the week, when it may be possible to secure a report on the bridge situation and a number of other matters referred to it.

GLENDALE ENTERS 15 MILLION YEAR

Permits to Date Pass $1,000,000 for the Dull Period

With one bound Glendale entered into the fifteen million class of building cities for the year today when the total number of permits to date for the year totaled $1,029,662, which was more than 200 per cent for the corresponding period last year and indicated a building rate, which if maintained, would mean that the year will close with $15,000,000 total building for the twelve months. This will be ten million in excess of last year, which was the highest previous record, having totaled $5,000,000.

Considering that the months to date are the most depressed of the entire year, the possibility of reaching the program of $15,000,000 for the year is not so remote as it might be thought.

One sign of the increased building is the number of houses that may now be rented here furnished and unfurnished at much less rental than a year ago, when they were unobtainable.

With these accommodations for the prospective settlers it is not impossible that newcomers will be able to remain in the city long enough to build their own homes.

City Attorney Woodard Reports on Powers to the City Council

EASEMENTS TOLD

Right of Way Originated With L. C. Brand and Was Extended

A detailed report upon the status of the Pacific Electric was submitted to the city council last night by City Attorney Bert Woodard. The document reviews the original right-of-way, ordinances subsequently granted, and was a complete history of the road in Glendale. In part it follows:

"You have asked me to report to you by what authority the Pacific Electric railway is operating in the city of Glendale.

"I find that the Pacific Electric railway on Brand boulevard was constructed before Glendale became a city, under the powers given to railroads by section 465 of the Civil Code of California. Section 465, in so far as it is necessary for me to quote therefrom in this communication, reads as follows. (Mr. Woodard quoted the section, common to all railroads in the state.)

He then continued:

"The right-of-way on Brand boulevard was acquired by the Los Angeles and Glendale Railway company and thereafter transferred by said company to the Los Angeles Interurban Railway company, and some time during 1911, the Los Angeles Interurban Railway company was consolidated with the Pacific Electric Railway company, and the right-of-way and all other interests of the Los Angeles Interurban Railway company thereby became the property of and passed to the Pacific Electric Railway company, and is now owned by it.

"I have not gone into the details of exactly how the right-of-way was originally transferred to the Los Angeles and Glendale Electric Railway company, as it existed when L. C. Brand, H. E. Huntington, or the

SYCAMORE GROVE BARRED BY CITY TO SANITARIUM

Petition of Dr. Bishop Is Denied on Property Owners' Protest

At its meeting last night the council denied the application of Dr. Bishop for the permit to construct a sanitarium at a point close to the entrance of Sycamore canyon. At the meeting a week previous both sides interested in this case appeared before the board and each presented its arguments. The attorney for the company of physicians stated that as there were other sanitariums within the city of Glendale and many within a closer distance to homes than would be the one his client wished to construct, this permit should be granted. For the opposition G. B. Woodberry and others, stated that if this institution were permitted to be erected at the proposed location it would greatly effect he value and desirability of property in that region.

At last week's meeting the council decided to discuss the matter further in the committee of the whole and to report last night. This was done with the result that it was decided not to grant the permit.

WHAT FOLKS ALMOST OWNED THE EARTH

By JOHN BARTON

(Copyright, 1921, by Associated Newspapers)

"Just stop to think," said Dr. Muskrat, impressively, "how things would be now if Flukeslasher's plan hadn't gone wrong. If that angry whale had nosed the Ark out to sea with all on board there would have been no one left on earth but the seals and ourselves, the squirrels, and the beavers, and the muskrats." The doctor waved a paw at Chips and Ripple Beaver and Chatter Squirrel's widow, who were drinking in his words. "That's how close we came to owning it. But then, I'm not so sure things would have been much better than they are. The raven would have stayed, too, and trouble flies wherever he flaps a wing. But when the Ark was wrecked with a rock right through her bottom—"

"Was anybody hurt?". Ripple asked anxiously.

"I don't know," replied the old paddle-paw. "The raven never said so. I 'spect he didn't dare go close enough to see for fear Mister Noah would turn the seagulls loose on him. But the whale was. He raged so rough he spoilt his looks for all time. He kept ramming and jamming so to get her afloat again that he banged his nose all out of shape and his whole head began to swell. He wasn't handsome to begin with but that's how he came to be the awful-looking thing whales are now—if you ever happen to see one.

"I know Mister Noah's menagerie was 'most scared to death 'cause the big he-seal heard them

"He was roaring around with his beard blowing wild in the wind, shaking his fist at Fluke-slasher."

hiss and spit and screech and squall and bellow and roar. The sound even carried over the broad waters to the old oak tree where our great-grandparents were keeping house like the echo of a far-off storm. He kept trying to put in a good word for them—the seal did—seeing he had friends aboard. 'Specially tha poor good-natured Ham whom everybody put upon.

"Ham was perched on the tippest top of the bow yelling, 'Please, Br'er Whale, go yo' ways and leave us 'lone. Oh, Lawdy, Lawdy! Ef dat's de way he sniffin', Lawdy help us when he come to sink his teef in.' (I'll tell you how big a whale's bite really is some time).

"Smarty Shem was sanging on so the whale's next whack wouldn't send him sliding down the decks (they were steep as a hill) and yelling for Ham to lead out the elephant and see if he couldn't get the Ark balanced some. And young Japhet was trying to get his dad calmed down. For Mister Noah was madder than the whale. He was roaring round with his beard blowing wild in the wind, shaking his fist at Fluke-slasher and ordering his sons to get busy and do something—no matter what.

Next Story: THE WHALE HAS HIS TRIUMPH.

Slowly and painfully the aged horse drew the cart heavily laden with apples to the top of the hill.

Then a tragedy happened. The tail-board of the cart dropped out, and with merry leaps and bounds the apples rolled about the road.

The driver was well-known in the neighborhood for the strength and picturesqueness of his language, and a crowd gathered quickly. The worried man gazed at the empty cart, at the apple-strewn roadway and then at the expectant audience.

"Gentlemen," he said, with a sad shake of the head, "I regret to confess I am unequal to the occasion."

CONGRESS RECORD FOR THE YEAR

WASHINGTON, March 7.—The close of Harding's first year as President today found members of congress conning the legislative record made in that time with peculiar intentness, for upon that year's record many political careers depend.

The year has been in some ways one of the most remarkable in congressional annals. Its most notable development both, legislatively and politically, was the emergence of the agricultural bloc in house and senate as an entity. The influence of this bi-partisan group of representatives and senators, speaking and acting for the country's farmers has been felt not only in purely agricultural legislation, but along general lines as well. The bloc stands today as the most formidable "third party" menace to the two major parties and as the most effective coalition of republicans and democrats in congressional history.

Harding put the senate to work the very day he was inaugurated. That special session lasted from March 4 to March 15. On April 1 both houses met, and stayed in session, with a month of recess, until November 23. The second session began on December 5, 1921, and is still at work.

Here, in brief, is what has been done since March 4, last:

Treaty with Columbia ratified, settling old dispute over Panama canal land.

Knox peace resolution adopted, and treaties of peace with Germany, Austria and Hungary ratified.

Taxes revised, the excess profits tax and other war levies being repealed.

Borah resolution for an international disarmament conference adopted.

War finance corporation revived, as an aid to farm credits.

Emergency tariff bill passed to aid the farmer.

Bills passed to put a "dirt farmer" on the Federal Reserve board, to prevent grain gambling, and to encourage co-operative marketing by exempting the co-operatives from the anti-trust laws.

Emergency immigration law passed.

Senator Newberry of Michigan given his seat, and charges of excessive campaign expenditure against him dismissed.

The outstanding failures, to-date, have been on tariff revision and the soldier bonus. Both figured in the republican campaign. The house has passed a tariff bill, but the senate finance committee had months of trouble with it.

Two notable figures in American political life passed from the stage during the year. Senator Philander C. Knox died in October, 1921, and on December 31, his colleague, Senator Boies Penrose passed away.

Considering what most people are willing to do for money, it's a wonder there are not more millionaires.

BUY A DIRECTORY CARD

Lawless Children

By H. ADDINGTON BRUCE

Author of "The Riddle of Personality," "Self-Development," Etc.

(Copyright, 1921, by The Associated Newspapers.)

The "movies" are being blamed for the epidemic of lawlessness which has infected many children. Well, the "movies" are no doubt responsible in part.

But by far the greater part of the responsibility rests with those parents, unfortunately numerous, who make no real effort to develop in the minds of their children a sense of law and order, a sense of the rights of others, a sense of moral values.

There even are parents so indifferent to their duties, so lacking in social conscience, that they put into the hands of their children playthings which are direct incitants to lawlessness.

Only the other afternoon a friend of mine stepped out of his house just in time to see a neighbor's boy taking aim with an airgun at the door window of the limousine which my friend had left standing at the curb. When he appeared the boy fled incontinently.

Promptly my friend went to his telephone, called up the boy's father, reported to him what had happened, and ended with the pertinent inquiry:

"What is your boy doing with an airgun, anyway?"

And the very next day, taking luncheon with another friend, I was told:

"A few days ago I found an airgun on my back porch. I asked my boy about it, and learned that it belonged to another boy, six years old.

"Think of it! Only six, yet his parents allowed that boy to carry a weapon with which he might inflict serious injury."

That night, opening my evening paper, I read of the death of a boy of thirteen, shot by another boy, of the same age, in a "wild west" game.

According to the newspaper account, this game had been played following attendance at a moving picture theater where melodramatic pictures were shown. But did this wholly account for the tragedy?

What about the parents of the boy who killed? Why did they let him "tote around" a pistol that might kill?

Child murders, child "hold-ups," child depredations of sundry kinds are reported with increasing frequency. After each we hear the cry, "It is the 'movies'!"

By all means get after the "movies," in so far as they put on the screen story-dramas that may incite the immature to lawless acts. But also get after those parents so stupid or so lazy that they allow their children to develop into wild, undisciplined cubs, juvenile Bolsheyiks, neighborhood pests, and potential destroyers of life and property.

And in the category of such parents, as personal observation has made evident to me, are not a few fathers and mothers who pride themselves on being well-bred and highly educated.

As Tompkins was on his way home one night he collided with Jenkins, who was running as fast as his bulk would allow him.

"Why this hurry, Jenkins?" he inquired.

"I'm—going—for—the—police," said Jenkins, between pants. "We have got a burglar in our house."

"But, surely, you haven't left your wife alone?"

"Oh, no! She's holding the burglar!"

RED PEPPER FOR COLDS IN CHEST

Ease your tight, aching chest. Stop the pain. Break up the congestion. Feel a bad cold loosen up in just a short time.

"Red Pepper Rub" is the cold remedy that brings quickest relief. It cannot hurt you and it certainly seems to end the tightness and drive the congestion and soreness right out.

Nothing has such concentrated, penetrating heat as red peppers, and when heat penetrates right down into colds, congestion, aching muscles and sore, stiff joints relief comes at once.

The moment you apply Red Pepper Rub you feel the tingling heat. In three minutes the congested spot is warmed through and through. When you are suffering from a cold, rheumatism, backache, stiffneck or sore muscles, just get a jar of Rowles Red Pepper Rub, made from red peppers, at any drug store. You will have the quickest relief known—Adv.

BONUS BILL NOW BEFORE THE HOUSE

has no intention of altering this stand in the slightest.

In accordance with the committee order, Chairman Fordney introduced the bill this afternoon.

WASHINGTON, March 7.—Opponents of the bonus bill in congress today were seeking to have President Harding oppose the new bonus-insurance-loan bill, framed after much effort by the republicans of the house ways and means committee.

They claim the plan of having the banks loan up to 50 per cent on the proposed service men's certificates will seriously interfere wtih the nation's financial system and are urging the president to stand by his previous declaration that the bonus must be postponed unless paid by a sales tax.

Secretary of the Treasury Mellon, according to reliable information, is opposed to the loan features of the plan for the same reason opponents in congress advance, and may present his views to President Harding at the cabinet meeting today.

The farm clause has been altered to guard against land grabs from those outside the benefits of the bill. Now, it is written so that nobody other than ex-service men can get a foot of land in the soldier farm tracts.

PACIFIC DEFEATS CENTRAL AVENUE

The baseball game played Monday afternoon between Central avenue and Pacific avenue schools on the Central avenue field, resulted in a score of 16 to 7 in favor of Pacific avenue.

The boys played a good, fair game and much credit is due both teams. Those on the Central team uere Elliott Wyman, pitcher; Clifford Koenig, catcher; Gordon Carline and aJck Palmer, shortstop; Richard Torrey, first base; Frank Motsch, second base; George Amey, third base; Harold Johnson, right field; George Harrison, center field; Thomas Crawford, left field.

BRIGGS COMPANY GETS BIG WORK

C. M. Briggs & Co., 232 West Alexander street, has been awarded the contract for the constuction of three homes, two of which are in Glendale and one in Beverly hills. The one in Beverly will be a beautiful Spanish adobe of eight rooms. This company also is building a fourstore building on N-orth Brand, plans for which are now being drawn.

REALTY BOARD LUNCHEON

The Glendale Realty board will have its luncheon Wednesday at 12 o'clock in the banquet hall of the chamber of commerce building. All members are requested to be present and will be permitted to bring one guest each.

Harry Culver, founder of Culver iCty, will be the chief speaker.

An old lady attended a lecture on physiology. At the close of his address the lecturer invited questions from his audience.

The old lady rose.

"I should be very much obliged," she said, "if the lecturer would tell me whether the part of the brain that he called the 'cerebellum' is inside the head or outside."

Purely Personal

Miss Lillian Shropshire and Miss Clara Hutton of 326 East Colorado street, who have both been ill with influenza, are slowly improving.

Guests Friday and Saturday at the home of Mrs. Elizabeth Snyder, 234 South Jackson street, were Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Kilgore from Muncie, Ind. They are spending this week at San Diego and vicinity.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed Reese from Bowling Green, Ohio, who have been visiting Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Konetzka of 1131 San Raphael avenue, left Monday for Oakland with their son, by automobile. Their son came down after them, and they will stop at Yosemite valley on the trip north.

The War Mothers will hold a silver tea Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Ella Richardson, 317 North Brand at 2 o'clock. Each member is to bring one or more prospective members. Mrs. Gibson, of the high school is in charge of the program which, no doubt, will be an interesting one.

Mr. and Mrs. J. N. McGillis of 1003 East Lomita avenue were the Sunday guests of Dr. and Mrs. J. Harvey Moore at Lynwood.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Lucas and family have moved to Portland, Ore. They had lived for some time with Mr. Lucas' parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Lucas, 640 Milford street. Harold has been associated with his father in the manufacture of Duchess Salad dressing in Los Angeles. He has been given the position as sales manager for a well-known shoe polish firm for the states of Oregon, Washington and Montana.

Mr. and Mrs. Felix Lopez of Santa Ana have bought the Ernest Elliott home on Pioneer drive. Mr. and Mrs. Lopez were recently married at Santa Ana and Mrs. Lopez was formerly Miss Brooks of that city.

Edwin Elliott, son of Mr. and Mrs. Earnest Elliott of the Elliott Hardware company, has returned from Balboa Beach where he has been spending some time with his grandmother, Mrs. Katherine Vashe.

Rev. Clifford Cole who is confined to his home by an attack of influenza is recuperating but still weak. He and his family are leaving for a few days at Hermosa Beach in the cottage of Calvin Whiting, in the hope that ocean breezes will stimulate his recovery.

Town Topics

Foothill Association Meeting.—The Glendale Foothill Improvement association will meet tonight at 7:30 at the Central avenue school.

Madrigal Club Meeting.—The Madrigal club will meet Wednesday morning at 9:45 in the chamber of commerce auditorium.

Casa Verdugo Church Society.—The missionary society of the Casa Verdugo Methodist church will meet Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Walker, 332 East Dryden street.

Central Ave. P. T. A.—The Central Avenue P. T. A. will meet at the school, Thursday, March 9th at 3:15. Mrs. Gladys Case of Los Angeles is going to talk on "Books for Children." Mrs. H. D. Henry will be the soloist for the afternoon. There will be an important board meeting at 2:30 and all members of the board are urged to attend.

East Glendale Association.—The East Glendale Welfare association, which ordinarily meets the first Monday evening in the month, did not have a session this week but is expected to assemble next Monday night at the Broadway school. Maurice Healey is president of the association, Mrs. Codley secretary and J. C. Sherer, vice president.

SIDE LIGHTS ON THE CITY COUNCIL

The city clerk was instructed to advertise for bids for the construction of the fire house in the Grand View district. These bids will be opened at the meeting of the council on March 23.

The draftsmen of the city are to get more money. The city attorney was instructed to draft an ordinance which will provide for two draftsmen for the engineering department instead of one, and for the salaries of these to oe $150 per month, instead of $130 per month as at present.

Another ordinance which the city attorney was instructed to draft was for an increase of salary of the city engineer to $250 per month, and for the appointment of a deputy city engineer at $175 per month.

An ordinance establishing the pay for automobile mechanics and carpenters for city work at $5 per day was ordered drawn by the city attorney.

An ordinance has been drawn by the city attorney amending the present set-back ordinance, which provides for the residents of any block in the city to petition the council for a different set back line giving good reason for the chance, and thereby secure such a change.

A communication was received from the railroad commission stating that the city had not asked permission of that body for the establishing of a crossing at Gardena avenue. It was brought out by Mr. Reeves that there has been a roadway at this point for years and that according to law there was aboslutely no need of asking permission of the commission to establish a crossing at this point. However, it was decided to comply with the request of the commission.

world will take it seriously, even though produced by a city the size of ours.

"3.—It must be a box office attraction. In other words, 'worth the money—the price of admission.' It must possess all the quanities of the successful drama of the stage. It must have pathos, sentiment, action, climax, and last, but not least comedy. Good clean comedy. This coupled with and accompanied by good music, presented in the broadest and best manner possible, should put the chances of failure at a minimum.

"To illustrate, let me give an example.

"Should any leading organized chorus in the city of Glendale give an annual concert, it wouldn't sell ten dollars worth of tickets in ten years in any other city ten or more miles away; for, no matter how excellent the program rendered, dear Mr. and Mrs. Foreign-Public will say it isn't worth the money, plus the trouble of getting to the city of Glendale, plus the fact that it is purely local and charity, with them, begins at home, so that is where they will spend their time and their money. At home—on their own local organizations—just as we do.

"On the other hand, should you invite the combined choruses of every city from San Diego to San Francisco to visit Glendale for a week and stage a singing contest, for a worth while prize, they would accept and come by the hundreds perhaps by the thousands, and bring their own audience with them. This is where the several federations and their Glendale representative should get in their work. They should also invite the orchestral organization, the male choruses and blee clubs, and the bands, especially the brass bands. And you won't need a large civic auditorium either, that is, the first year. The high school auditorium can be used. Likewise the chamber of commerce, the Shriners' audit, the Methodist church, and the Glendale theatres. Simultaneously give five contest concerts for the ladies' singing societies; starting Monday and ending Friday night. Simultaneously have the men's glee clubs give five contest concerts in the chamber of commerce auditorium. Likewise rent the Glendale theatres for the week and give your orchestral contests each night from 8:30 to 10:30. In these combined auditoriums you have a gross seating capacity of 4,000 or more.

"Now, on Saturday night give a gigantic jubilee, with the combined ladies', men's, and orchestral organizations, with a few simple musical numbers. All together, 5,000 singers and a 1000 instrumentalists, and award the prizes. And a word of warning, make the prizes worth while. This can be given out of doors, the first year in the natural amphitheatre in Verdugo Woodlands.

"Then for the crowning point of interest in this annual event, again let me say, 'and a little child shall lead them.' And let me emphasize this—for herein lies your heart interest—your sentiment, your coloring, and your comedy. Here you will get your unlimited supply of new genius, your youthful enthusiasm, your courageous co-operation, and above all, your originality. Yes, 'a little child shall lead them,' or rather thousands of children. A crusade! A children's choral crusade! Each night, just before the five concerts, in the five different auditoriums, the crusade will slowly wind its way through the heart of our city, which after all is building for them—their future—for the child of today is the citizen of tomorrow.

"Now the plan is so simple. For example: take the high school and teach the songs of America in two and three part harmony. During the school year prepare the costumes and let them surround an electric float, emblematic of our beloved country. With this riot of youth and beauty, accompanied by the music from a thousand childish throats, who would dare say it wasn't the noblest sight ever witnessed by mortal man? This naturally would be the climax in your crusade. So precede 'America' with floats of the nations, surrounded by singing children; in the national costume of the nations; such as England, France, Italy, Spain, India, Egypt, Japan, Turkey, China, and the Esquimo of Alaska, and the negro race of Africa.

"The city of Glendale would thus create and produce 'A Children's Choral Crusade of All Nations' that would undoubtedly be the most beautiful, most dignified, and the most soul inspiring pageant the world has ever seen or heard. And our children would be responsible for its success. Truly! 'A little child shall lead them.'"

The next article will take up the questions of finance, organization, and other essentials necessary for the successful production of Glendale's Annual May Musical Festival and the Children's Choral Crusade.

BIDS FOR RANGE SHOW INTEREST

Bids for the Premo Eclipse gas range were opened Saturday night at the Elliott Hardware store, 205 West Broadway, at 8 o'clock. A good number were present at the opening and there was much interest manifested. For a week this attractive enameled Premo Eclipse gas range has been on display at the store and it was advertised that up to Saturday bids would be received. The box was then opened and the store was awarded to the highest bidder, E. W. True, 323 Hawthorne street.

The next bidder was just five cents lower. Mr. True is delighted with the beautiful range, purchased at a very attractive price.

The printing press is responsible for many of the revolutions of this world.

Eagle Rock News

NEWS OF WEDDING IS ANNOUNCED

Miss Dorothy Pankhurst Married to M. W. Bell on February 26

Miss Dorothy Pankhurst, niece of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin M. Herr of 123 North Highland avenue, was married on February 24 to M. W. Bell, a cousin of W. S. Bell of North Kenilworth avenue. The ceremony was performed by Rev. B. B. Weatherall in the bride's own home, the upper flat of the Herr house, where the couple will reside. Miss Pankhurst is a daughter of Mr. Herr's sister, who passed away about two years ago, after the house had been constructed to accommodate the two families in joint ownership.

EAGLE ROCK HUNTS CLEVER SLOGAN FOR BOOSTING

The prize contest for an Eagle Rock city slogan, to be used on the big electric signs soon to be installed at the entrances to the city, on stationery and in every way possible, began on Monday, March 6. The idea was suggested by N. H. Perry, Jr., a member of the publicity committee of the chamber of commerce, and the committee was empowered by the chamber to conduct the contest. They have appointed judges, who will remain incognito. The slogan must not be more than six nor less than two words in length, and must apply either to the scenery or the qualities of Eagle Rock for a residence. The slogans should be sent to the Sentinel office in care of the publicity committee. Anyone who has ever been in Eagle Rock, whether a resident or not, is eligible to compete. The contest will close Saturday night, March 18.

Eagle Rock

Mr. and Mrs. C. I. Broderick and children moved March 1 from 128 Lawrence avenue to the lot they have purchased on South Satsuma avenue, on which they had a large garage built that they will occupy for a time.

J. G. Caddell of the Caddell Motor company has bought the large and attractive bungalow at the foot of Virginia avenue, which was originally the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Broxholme, now residents of Hollywood. On March 1 the Caddell family moved from 158 Rowland avenue to their new property. Miss Rena Cathcart, who owns the house they left, has leased it to another tenant.

Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Terry have leased their furnished bungalow on Windermere avenue to Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Crown from Los Angeles. Other arrivals from Los Angeles are Mr. and Mrs. W. Earl Starr and Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Thomas, who have moved into their new home at 255 North Acacia avenue.

All the way from Philadelphia, Pa., Mr. and Mrs. Charles Lyon, their son and daughter, have come to make their home. They are now settled in a new bungalow at 406 West Colorado boulevard.

The Young Matrons' club of the Congregational church will be entertained Wednesday afternoon by Mrs. J. T. Bailey and Mrs. Vardaman W. Bailey, at the home of the former, 505 East Hill avenue.

Mrs. M. Lucas and her daughter, Miss Addie Lucas, of 153 North Highland avenue, have returned from Ogden, Utah, bringing with them the five-day-old son of another daughter of Mrs. Lucas, who passed away soon after its birth. They will rear the child.

Mrs. S. T. Montgomery of 260 Acacia avenue, who was called east by her father's fatal illness, will visit her brother in Mississippi before returning to Eagle Rock.

Mr. and Mrs. George A. Gustin are entertaining Mrs. Gustin's father, William A. Sherman of Irvington, N. J., at their home, 120 Floristan avenue.

Under the leadership of Miss Laura Mattingly, teacher of music in the Eagle Rock schools, a community orchestra was organized last fall whose members are all skilled players. They furnished the musical program at the recent dramatic performance of the Community Players, adding much to the entertainment of the evening. The personnel is as follows: Geo. H. Wolf, violin; Miss Esther Gleiss, violin; Virgil Drengberg, viola; Dr. R. J. Lippold, clarinet; Mrs. Lippold, horn; Mrs. Geo. H. Wolf, trombone; F. Karger, cornet; W. S. Gregory ,saxophone; Marion Lippold, piano, and Mrs. J. E. Stanton, flute.

Eagle Rock now has a variety store, patterned in a smaller scale after the Woolworth stores, which have proved such a convenience to the public. It was opened Saturday after a window display of aluminum ware as a special for the day that attracted much attention. A balloon was given every child that visited the store on the opening day, if accompanied by his parents. The ladies conducting it have had experience in this line in Oakland.

EVANGELIST HAS UNIQUE METHOD

Philip L. Knox Announces Talk on Astronomy at Eagle Rock

Posters are out announcing three illustrated lectures on astronomy, to be given on consecutive Tuesday evenings in the Central school auditorium, by Philip L. Knox, lecturer-evangelist. There will be screen pictures of the wonderful views obtained through the greatest telescopes of the world and many interesting facts will be presented. The subject for today's lecture is "Exploring the Solar System." Professor De Eufrio, a famous harp soloist from New York city, will play. There is no admission fee. The lecture will begin at 8 o'clock; music at 7:30.

NOTES OF EAST END, EAGLE ROCK

The grocery store and meat market just beyond the end of the car line, east of Townsend avenue, has changed hands for the fourth time since last summer. W. W. McFall of Benton, Ill., has purchased it and will take possession the last of this month. He intends to add a second story to the brick building, which was erected about a year ago. The plan calls for small flats, which he will rent. He had previously purchased a lot on Virginia avenue, near the boulevard, and is erecting several small houses on it.

Work is progressing fast on the two brick stores next the house furnishing shop of C. E.Palmanteer, which are being built for J. M. Blankenship of Glendale, who had previously invested at Eagle Rock center.

C. A. Schulze, the popular proprietor of a meat market, first in the grocery store of J. M. Sheets, later at the corner of South Central and East Adams avenues, has moved to the east end and on Monday, February 27, opened a market in one side of the large store occupied by the branch bakery of C. F. Mueller.

GALILEAN TO SPEAK

In the Presbyterian church Wednesday evening at 7:30, "A Shepherd of Galilee" will be the subject of an illustrated address by Stephen A. Habousch, who was born and reared among the hills of Galilee. He has recently returned from Palestine and has delivered many lectures in universities and colleges, dressed in the native costume of that country. He has long been noted as a Chatauqua lecturer. Admission free. A free will offering will be taken.

PERSIAN AT CHURCH

Instead of the usual mid-week lecture by Rev. E. Morgan Isaac in the Congregational church, Ameen U. Fareed, M.D., L.L.D., has been secured and will speak on "Mysticism and Oriental Religions." This will be a great treat for Eagle Rock thinkers, for Dr. Fareed, a Persian of great scholarship, is famous as a lecturer and teacher of the highest philosophy. There is no admission fee. Wednesday evening at 7:45.

CO-OPERATIVE MARKETING

The California Farm Bureau exchange is helping livestock producers dispose of their product to better advantage along the following lines:

County managers, through committeemen, correspondence and solicitation, locate such stock as is in marketable condition. When the manager has located one or more carloads, that will be ready by a certain date, he notifies the state exchange. The wants of farmers for various kinds of livestock are likewise ascertained, the state exchange keeping a record of all of these.

The plan under which the livestock department is operating in handling the different classes of livestock is as follows:

Feeder cattle, feeder hogs, feeder sheep, fresh dairy cows and springers, breeding stock of all kinds, are shipped directly from the farmers having to stock for sale to the farmer wanting the stock.

Beef cattle, market hogs and sheep ready for market are sold directly to representatives of slaughtering establishments or packers.

Cull dairy cows go direct to slaughtering establishments or packers, subject to inspection.

Veal calves are dressed by members or employes of county farm bureau exchanges and shipped to the larger cities, where representatives of the state exchange sell the carcasses direct to retailers.

Live poultry, pigeons, geese and ducks are sold to feeding establishments. Dressed turkeys and rabbits are sold direct to retailers.

The department is planning to coordinate the hog auction sales in the Sacramento valley along the same lines that they are handled by the California Farm Bureau Marketing association.

Arrangements already are under way to assist the sheep men with the marketing of lambs in eastern markets next spring. Sheep men will be kept advised as to market requirements and conditions and will be assisted in arrangements for through trains for lambs only. Receipt of daily market information will make it possible to divert shipments to best markets while the cars are en route.

ANNOUNCEMENT

E. F. Pomeroy and Son of Burbank wish to announce that their Grade A Raw Milk, heretofore distributed by the Calla Lily Creamery, will now be distributed exclusively by the Glendale Creamery Co. of this city. This pure tuberculin tested raw milk, which is produced and bottled on their ranch under strict sanitary conditions will be carried on all twelve of our routes supplying Glendale and vicinity. We can gladly recommend this milk, as we have thoroughly inspected the conditions under which it is produced, and after making several improvements at their ranch, such as cooling the milk with an ice machine to forty degrees, bottling in an all cement bottling room, milking by milking machines and by using our thoroughly washed and sterile bottles, we are sure this Grade A Raw Milk will come up to your highest expectations.

Truths in Epigram

I would far rather be ignorant than wise in the foreboding of evil. — Aeschylus 525-56 B. C.).

Private credit is wealth; public honour is security. The feather that adorns the royal bird supports its flight; strip him of his plumage, and you fix him to the earth.—Letters of Junius.

BEING PRESIDENT

Being President is not the happiest thing in the world. There is dignity and honor and fame about it, to be sure. Perhaps, all things considered, it is as distinguished a place as there is in the world. To be the executive of something more than a hundred millions of peoples, in a country such as the United States, is no little honor.

But there is responsibility about it as well. And there is worry and care and heartache and trial. Presidents age rapidly. They live about five or ten years in every one of presidential service. The job wears men out.

In these times especially, the President's ways are those of difficulty and trial and trouble. There is the post-war debt and difficulty to be adjusted. Times throughout the United States are not unusually prosperous. The farmers are not in easy circumstances. Neither is labor nor industry. Conditions through the world are not happy and easy. International relations are full of heat and friction and sometimes anger.

Everybody wants something and the President is expected to see that everybody gets what he wants. Otherwise he is a failure as President. The pacifists want peace and the President is supposed to see to that. The naval people want a big navy and the peace lovers want a little one. The army people want lots of army and the theorists want no army at all.

Henry Ford wants Muscle Shoals and the unlimited printing-and issue of money. Europe wants the rebate of ten or fifteen billions of dollars of debt. Germany wants a reduction of payments. France wants reparations and money.

The veterans of the late war want an adjusted compensation. Congress wants to pay it, but is wary of adding to taxation. Secretary Mellon wants to see where the money is coming from. Senator Borah wants a fight.

Senators and congressmen want postoffices and plums in general. Secretary Hughes wants the open door in China. Russia wants food. Labor wants employment. The irreconcilables want reservations.

It is different from the old days when the government flowed along pretty smoothly, when the signing of commissions and the passage of a tariff act were about the high lights of executive service. These are days of peace that is by no means peace. They are days of study and worry and care and responsibility and statesmanship and international difficulty and industrial and social unrest and national trial.

Being President is honorable. But it is not a peaceful and easy task. It is adding years to the executive at the rate of five or ten for one.

BAD TASTE IN FRAUDS

A rather gruesome article in the press of a few days ago set forth facts anatomical and otherwise about the throat and larynx and vocal cords of the late and greatly lamented Enrico Caruso. The length of the vocal cords was set forth as showing whence came the marvelous range of the singer and there were other details that stamped the article at once as a bit of imaginative writing in extremely bad taste.

The report was based upon the statement that the throat of the singer had been preserved after death for observation and that the powers of the singer were discerned from the observations made. Now comes the widow who declares, truthfully without doubt, that the throat of Caruso was not preserved for any observation or scientific research, and denouncing the whole story as a fraud and fable.

Without doubt it is. We suspect, although we dislike to admit that persons could be heartless enough to make such use of the art of writing, that the publicity people have been busy again. A heartless and evil thing to do, this raking among the throat and vocal cords and larynx of a dead man, for any purpose whatever. All the talk of super-throats is bosh again. Throats are much alike. But use makes difference. Bad taste has reached its extreme of nastiness in this instance.

THE READY AUTOMATIC

Gloomy Gustavus goes home out of sorts. Gloomy Gustavus may have his skin full of home-brew or bootleg. Domestic difficulties fret him. The steak is not cooked enough. His wife was out until five-thirty at the movies. Perhaps the gas bill was too large.

Gloomy Gustavus, out of sorts and irritated at waiting five or ten minutes for the arrival of the wife of his bosom, polishes and makes ready his trusty automatic, a household necessity with which all the Gloomy Gustavuses and Irritable Isaacs and Emotional Edwards seem to be in these days supplied.

When the delayed or neglected wife appears Gloomy Gustavus produces the polished and ready revolver and shoots her with as many bullets as seem necessary to indicate complete disapproval. Sometimes he shoots himself and sometimes, unfortunately, he does not. However it may be, shooting seems the rage of the present day. It is about the readiest thing done.

Then comes the trial and the judgment of the irritated husband, who says "she tried to make a goat of me" or "she made me mad," or something like that. Reason enough for murder to be sure. Why should the wife escape if she tries to make a goat out of a man whom nature has already made a fool and a wretch of? Why?

Gloomy Gustavus may get a prison sentence. The jury may disagree. He may go to the insane ward. Or he may escape altogether. Juries are uncertain. Emotional appeals are potent. Nobody knows what will happen, but in most instances we are fairly sure that nothing much will be done to discourage future Gloomy Gustavuses and ready automatics and shootings and murders.

There are established and lawful means by which domestic difficulties may be adjusted. The ready automatic is not one of them. The way to serve the user of the ready automatic is to put him where ready automatics are not to be had and to put him there speedily.

Human life is held too cheaply. There is too much mush, gush and slush in the treatment of murderers. The combination makes for many murders and little punishment. And that makes human life still more unsafe.

It is possible that society may be erring a good deal on the humanitarian side.

MENTAL SUICIDE

The purveyors of morbidity and hysteria discovered something new the other day in the case of young Church, the murderer recently executed at Chicago. They discovered a case of "mental suicide." Church's crime was peculiarly horrifying. He murdered two automobile salesmen that he might steal a car to make a show with. Peculiarly enough, he was tried and sentenced to death. The peculiarity is that some plea of insanity did not save him.

Fearful and craven, he started a "hunger strike." That is another morbid and hysterical thing invented and devised by criminals seeking to escape punishment. It is a kind of blackmail, by which the striker hopes to force humanitarianism to release him. The only thing wrong about the hunger strike is forcible feeding. If any craven wretch wants to starve himself to death, let him do it.

Church "hunger struck." He went for many days without food except as he was forcibly fed. Then the purveyors of morbidity and hysteria discovered "mental suicide." He had killed his mind. He was dead, except for the matter of heart beats and breathing. And efforts were made to save him from the gallows which was perhaps the only structure in life he ever adorned properly.

Lawyers went from court to court to save the wretch who murdered two men with a baseball bat to steal a car to make a show with. It was sought to create pity for the craven who was too cowardly to face death, and tried to starve himself off the gallows. It was said the "mental suicide" was already dead. As a matter of fact, he was a craven, cowardly, shamming, tricky and evil wretch, to the last cunning and despicable.

But at the end the "mental suicide" recovered. He was audibly praying and calling for the relatives he had failed to notice not long before. The game was played out. The sham was a failure. The trick did not work.

And now the purveyors of morbidity and hysteria will search for some other source of silliness and space.

NEW WAISTLINES FOR OLD

By DR. FRANK CRANE

A little book called HOW TO REDUCE contains many helpful hints by way of "hard facts on a soft subject."

DR. FRANK CRANE

The world is divided into two kinds of people—those who are trying to get fat and those who are trying to get thin.

Antoinette Donnelly, in this book, turns her attention to those headed for Slimville and a Vogue figure. She promises there are only two mandates, which are:

The Will to Eat Less and
The Will to Exercise More.

If nobody loves you; if the dressmaker protests—also the tailor; if the novelists never make a hero or heroine out of you; if the comedian introduces you for his big laughs; if you have built a solid wall of fat about you to shut out life and light and fun—

Then join the Cult of Slimness.

If you don't want a job in the circus, follow this little book. Choose one of these prescribed diets, and in anywhere from ten days to four months no more fat tummies or double chins.

Here are a few Fatgrams taken from the book:

If you feel tempted to flop into a chair—get busy.

If you feel like taking a cab—walk.

Don't "let George do it" if your doing it will involve a muscular turn.

Habits of ease and indolence have the most bulging consequences.

Fat is not a heritage like a turned-up nose or red hair.

Many a person has seen the tragedy of fat in a sweetheart's eyes.

Man has as much right to say what his weight shall be as what ticket he'll vote or what church he'll attend.

You do not have to starve to get your weight down to health and beauty standard.

Overeating is more often ignorance than gluttony.

You have friends and enemies at the table. Find them out, then proceed to apply the dietetic version "Love not your enemies."

Try small helpings and see if you need more. You may not.

When hogs are to be fattened for market they are penned to prevent exercising and fed continually.

Every pound lost by deliberate privation is a point gained in morale.

THE LISTENING POST

How do you look at life anyway?

Did you ever stop to think what it means to be alive?

To have animation and consciousness and the capacity for sensation and happiness?

Or didn't you ever think much about it?

Take it as a matter of course.

Of course you are alive.

Why shouldn't you be?

Everybody living is alive.

But is everybody living alive?

Thoroughly awake and conscious?

* * *

Or are there a great many dead spirits in live bodies.

To reverse the usual order of things.

We look upon the spirit as a live thing.

When the body dies.

But is the spirit not sometimes a dead thing?

While the body lives?

So do you prize life.

Prize it as a great treasure to be guarded and adorned with fine deeds and works?

Or is it just a sort of old cloak to be worn carelessly and tossed about at will.

Then how do you look at work?

The most essential thing in life perhaps.

For without it civilization could not survive for long.

Do you look on work as a privilege?

Do you recognize it as a necessary thing to be glad for and joyous about?

Do you wake up in the morning anxious to be at it?

To do your share and a little more?

To deserve the life you have by working for it?

Or do you look at work as an evil thing to be gotten away from when you can and as often as you can?

* * *

Beloved work is play, of course.

You know that.

Just as beloved life is heaven.

All simple enough when you analyze it.

The boy works harder at play than at any chore you might set him to do.

And he loves it.

Because he finds joy in it.

How do you look upon education?

Music and art and play and travel and pleasure and diversion and all of the things that have to do with culture and happiness?

Do you look on them as divine rights of yours?

Or as privileges to be grateful for?

How do you look on struggle and pain and grief and the things of the darker side of life?

Do you shirk from them with fear and anger and rebellion?

Or do you accept them as necessary parts of the refinement of a spirit and things having to do with a spiritual education?

Do you believe in doing as little as you can?

As much as anybody else?

Your full share?

Or as much more than your share as your strength and opportunity will permit you to do?

* * *

Everybody should have articles of belief.

He needs to have faith in things.

He needs to have belief and faith in life and in friends and in love and labor and laughter and all of the things that go to make up rich and real living.

* * *

He needs to believe that life is good.

That the world is good.

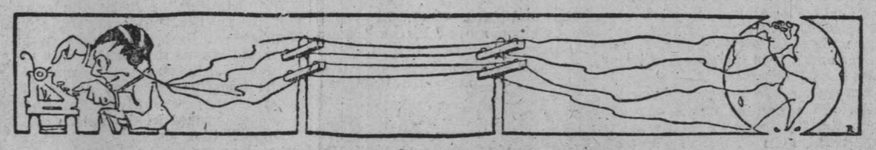
That men and women are good and eager for happiness and gladness and willing to help and be friends.

Faith in life and the world is essential to usefulness.

Happiness.

Helpfulness and service and things like that.

JAMES W. FOLEY.



SONGS OF THE POETS

"When As a Lad"—By Isabel Eccleston Mackay (18———)

When, as a lad, at break of day
I watched the fishers sail away,
My thoughts, like flocking birds, would follow
Across the curving sky's blue hollow,
And on and on—
Into the very heart of dawn!

For long I searched the world! Ah me!
I searched the sky, I searched the sea,
With much of useless grief and rueing,
Those winged thoughts of mine pursuing—
So dear were they,
So lovely and so far away!

I seek them still and always will
Until my laggard heart is still,
And I am free to follow, follow,
Across the curving sky's blue hollow,
Those thoughts too fleet
For any save the soul's swift feet!

OBSERVED AT A GLANCE

More fumes from Fiume.

Slowly but surely the names of the film stars are creeping back into the press.

EASTERN POINT OF VIEW

HOW ONE BUSINESS GREW

[Kansas City Times]

During the war period Mrs. M. F. Moman of Macon made a batch of candy to sell to raise her little daughter Caroline's quota for war work among school children. It tasted like more to those who bought and after a short time a candy dealer put in a stock of her candy fresh every day. Now six firms in town are carrying her candy regularly despite the fact that there are two candy factories there, and she is branching out into other towns. She is able to undersell factory products because she does not aim to get rich off every transaction but only to make enough profit to make it worth while and keep it moving rapidly.

INDORSED BY UNINDORSEMENT

[Syracuse Post-Standard]

The Pan-Germans are ridiculing the Washington conference—new testimony to its success.

COMMON SENSE ON THE BONUS

[Washington Star]

Politically the bonus question is full of peril for the party in power. The republicans are in danger of punishment if they reject the bonus, and also if they grant it. They will be accused of buying soldier votes with the people's money if the bonus is given. They will be accused of ungratefully sacrificing the soldiers if they reject it.

In this predicament the congress will, it is to be hoped, consider the matter from an economic rather than a political point of view. Grant the bonus or refuse it, as a matter of justice, and, if it is granted, finance it as a business proposition, without reference to the interests affected or the political dangers entailed.

A GOOD FORM OF PEACE INSURANCE

[New York Tribune]

"A modern ship of war of the largest type," writes a former secretary in the American diplomatic service, "costs $40,000,000. The same sum devoted to preventing war, through the establishment of a competent diplomatic service would double the salary of every secretary on the pay roll for one hundred years and leave a substantial surplus."

Until the diplomatic service is adequately paid there is small prospect of attracting to it the men needed to raise it to the high plane which it should hold. It has been estimated that except in a few of the world's capitals the average diplomatic officer has to spend more than twice his salary in order to maintain the standard expected of a representative of the American government.

Rarely has there been a more appropriate occasion to remedy this deplorable state of affairs. What could be more fitting than that the foreign service should profit by the decisions of the conference on the limitation of armament and that some of the money saved on the navy should be devoted to one of the best forms of peace insurance—the strengthening of our diplomatic service?

JUST BETWEEN OURSELVES

By DELLA STEWART

What a mistaken idea we somehow imbibed in the last generation! Why we came to think that education was for the purpose of freeing us from hard work! Anything but a white-collar job was infinitely beneath us or our children. Let ditch digging and ignorance chum together. We would have none of either.

We thought ourselves very wise in this, and so contributed much to the present upheaval of ideas and ideals. The truth is that education should go to instill a love of clean thinking more than desire for clean hands. Both if possible, but the first, anyway. Education is not for the purpose of freeing from work; it is to teach one to find work and how to co-operate with others in the working process.

Education, too, should teach intelligent obedience to fundamental laws and personal obligations of fair treatment and honest dealing. It should develop individual initiative and individual responsibility. It should emphasize the honorable quality of any variety of work necessary for the welfare of the community, state or nation, and the honorable position of the faithful worker—whether he be statesman or mason—a curer of sick souls or a delver in the mines. Else how can a democracy be true to its name?

It by no means follows that all may be equally congenial: Yet they may be. It by no means follows that the abolishment of class feeling must come. Similarity of interests, differences of individuality and training, these would take care of that. But it would mean a common understanding and a common brotherliness of feeling. Is this not worth striving for?

COMMENT ON DAY'S NEWS

Here's another angle of the liquor business which the new prohibition agent, F. A. Hazeltine, in this district has revealed. He says that in his experience in attempting to enforce the prohibition law he has run across many of the stills which the bootleggers have used to make whisky and he has found the utmost filth, that in some instances there has been a layer of dead flies inches thick on the top of the vat. These, he says, do not disturb the bootleggers at all. They don't attempt to remove them. They stir them into the mass and let it go at that. He also says that he has found dead rats and gophers in the liquor vats. "If the men who drink this stuff could see what we agents see they wouldn't drink it with any relish," said Mr. Hazeltine.

This may not be good reading for purchasers of bootleg,, but it has the stamp of truth and coming immediately upon the disclosures made by the Pasadena police that most of the "Old Crow" and "Haig and Haig" whisky sold in this part of the country is manufactured in San Francisco, it ought to make some purchasers of the bogus stuff think twice before they both violate the law and are swindled through the purchase of bootleg whisky fraudulently labeled.

In the office of the chief of police in Pasadena is evidence in the shape of hundreds of labels of "Old Crow" and other brands of whisky, the confession of a man under arrest that the whisky is made in San Francisco and the labels, bottles, metal caps, to prove the deceit practiced. It is just about time that the people awoke to a realization that the law of the land cannot be set aside by a small minority of criminals engaged in an illicit business and cheating the people with whom they have illicit dealings.

You will find an editorial in the March 4 Saturday Evening Post entitled "America Last" that should have the attention of every American. "Europe has much to teach us," it says, "but she has been sending us the wrong teachers. From them we have been learning the worst and not the best of Europe's manners, methods, morals and beliefs. We have not been assimilating our later-day immigration; it has been assimilating us." There is something to think about in this. "Must we try to solve everybody's problems except our own? Or shall we go back a ways to saner and clearer standards, and strive to make this country worth living in?" There's something for Americans to think about.

Well, well, well; listen to this! Miss Eleanor Adams, president of Oxford college for women, says that the mother of the girl of today was a "flapper." She asks you to remember the Merry Widow hat, balloon sleeves, wire rat of the once famous pompadour and the "Boston dip" waist. " She doesn't see much difference in these and the knee-length skirt and bobbed hair of today. She says, too, that the girl of today has developed initiative and expends her surplus energy in radical opinions, extreme dress and restlessness.

What is jazz? One authority says it is the philosophy of the present generation. Another says it is the language of the jungle and still another that it is the gesture of the devil. A claim is made also that it is the national anthem. At any rate it is a convenient label for things we don't like and when we say this is a jazz age we are not paying a compliment either.

It's a pity that Barnum isn't alive today. He would have been interested in learning about the man in London who agreed to pay $85 a week interest on $500 investments. His victims are widely scattered. He is being held because he cannot account for $17,000,000 invested with him. He operated for two years paying the interest out of the capital. He had a method, he claimed, of beating the races. Also he had a glib tongue. But all the romance is taken out of it by the knowledge that the only office he had was in his bathroom. He used the bathtub to hold the money until it overflowed.

WATCHING THE PARADE

By JOHN PILGRIM

My wife says she was bitterly ashamed of me. She says that no matter what I might have thought, I should have had the decency to keep the muffler on it. She says that I did not show a decent respect for the cloth.

Well—if you'll let me say a word in my own defense—it seems to me that the time has gone by when one sort of cloth is entitled to any more respect than another sort of cloth. I know one minister of the gospel for whom I have a complete, a seething, an emotional, and demonstrative contempt. He is selfish, he is a liar, he is lazy, he is a hypochondriac——

I could go on and tell a lot more about him, but what's the use? Why should I pretend to myself that I respect that man? I do not. Why should he demand respect of the community when he is not entitled to it? I consider him a dangerous man. I think he is the most dangerous because a brow-beaten public fears to tell him to his face the various sorts of beasts he is. If the youth of the community and the more impressionable part of the community—male and female—are taught to look up to a man who is in every sense contemptible and false a grave harm may be done.

So that when our minister—who is a good, doddering, stale, well meaning, inept old codger—tried to tell me a lot of things last night that I coud demonstrate were untrue I took issue with him. My wife was reared in the fear of the altar and respect for the cloth. She thinks that no matter how much of a fathead a person in authority set over us may be, it is our drilled and disciplined duty to conceal our perception of this fact and go through the forms of obedience and reverence.

Our minister is a dear old man—but he isn't worth the powder and shot that would be needed to kill him. He has never taken a forward step in our community. He has never dared attack wealth or privilege or caste. He has preached a soft and snappy gospel, and when his interpretation of the Scriptures is challenged his only defense is in tears. He cannot argue. He wants to flop down on his marrowbones and cry over the sinner.

Maybe I'm wrong. I have been in my time. But it seems to me that nowadays a minister can demand just that measure of respect for his cloth for which he can pay in goods—in the goods of service and courage and strength and leadership. A black coat and a round collar no longer afford protection.

DO YOU KNOW THAT?

BOY SCOUTS PLAN ST. PATRICK'S HIKE

Members of Troop No. 2, Boy Scouts, are planning a St. Patrick's party for the evening of March 17 at their cabin clubhouse in Verduga Woodlands. Invitations have just gone out which state that an Irish jaunting car will leave Brand and Broadway on the evening of the date mentioned at 7:30 o'clock which means that a special car on the Montrose line will be provided for the St. Patrick merry makers.

Patronesses of the affair will be Mrs. Benjamin Robinson, Mrs. Charles L. Chandler, Mrs. C. G. Farrow and Mrs. A. A. Barton.

The program of the evening has not been perfected but it will include games and stunts and a general good time.

The guest list will be limited to members and their young lady friends.

PENN STATE FOLKS RALLY TO CALL OF PICNIC

Few would think of Glendale as a little Pennsylvania, yet when the Pennsylvania club arranged for a picnic to be held in Odd Fellows hall last Saturday night, 80 Pennsylvanians reported. It proved a delightful reunion and the period between 7 and 8 o'clock was devoted to reminiscences of the dear old state they were all so glad to get away from.

Shortly before the clock struck 8, the refreshment committee invited the company to the banquet hall which was discovered to be beautifully decorated with yellow acacia, and where tables were bountifully laden with sandwiches, cold meats, tea, coffee, and cakes galore of the old fashioned Pennsylvania kind.

Having done justice to the spread the guests returned to the audience hall where the program of the evening began with the singing of America with Miss Nettie Campbell of Clarion, Pa., at the piano. Little Eleanor Marek then did a fancy dance which pleased everybody.

The address of the evening was made by the president of the club, Dr. Francis Collier, who proved equal to the occasion and said many pleasant things about Pennsylvania and Pennsylvanians. Miss Gretchen Altpeter sang beautifully "The Temple Bells," and a humorous reading, "How Love Came Flying Through the Window" was contributed by J. F. Reynolds, who responded to applause with an encore number.

There were two readings by Genevieve Marek, entitled "Hens" and "Mother's Glasses" for which she received much applause.

Genevieve Marek again danced, this time a "Highland Fling" and Miss Campbell gave a piano solo.

The program closed with Cadman's "Land of the Blue Water" sung by Mrs. Ray E. DeCamp of Pittsburgh, who was enthusiastically encored and responded with "Will O' the Wisp."

"Worse!" exclaimed the wrathful owner. "It's ruined, man! How could it have been worse?"

WE CALL FOR AND DELIVER

ONE MILLION GRAFT AT CAMP KEARNEY

transmitted every word to federal agents in an adjoining suite.

The story of how the government's agents tracked down the alleged swindlers and of the alleged swindle reads like fiction. As related to the United Press, the story was said to run like this:

F. M. Sturgis, chief of the department of justice agents, was ordered to send an operative to watch an auction of army goods at Camp Kearney. The man chosen to go was R. E. Ferguson, an agent who had tracked down a gang of army swindlers in Detroit.

He went to the San Diego hotel. Here he found the auctioneer and the two quartermaster corps officers in charge of the sale were living together and were on intimate terms. With them were two Los Angeles department store proprietors. Several other Los Angeles business men were daily callers.

In order to find out just what was in the wind, Ferguson employed "Indian Dick," a celebrated character.

"Indian Dick" shadowed the men and from places of concealment under their very feet overheard enough of their conversation to give Ferguson an inkling of the huge alleged plot on foot to defraud the government.

Ferguson sent for help and George Grotewall hurried to San Diego to assist him. Together they planted the dictaphone in the room occupied by the auctioneer and army officers.

With their ears at the receivers in the adjoining room the federal agents learned of an apparent conspiracy existing between the government auctioneer, the officers in charge of the sale and a ring of buyers.

The million dollars' worth of government supplies was to be knocked down to the asserted conspirators at prices that were just enough to maintain the camouflage of a sale.

Signals were agreed upon. The stage was set for a big clean-up.

The ring of alleged plotters found out that they were being watched, but they did not suspect the true facts. They believed, it was learned via the delicate wires of the dictaphone, that a gang of bandits was shadowing them to get their money, and they prepared to give the supposed robbers a battle in the hotel.

Meanwhile Colonel Phillips, commanding the Ninth army corps area, had been informed of what was in the air and arrived on the scene.

Major Edgerton, director of army sales, also rushed to the coast from Washington to aid in the round-up.

In a room at the hotel, which served as a clearing house for the asserted conspirators, sealed bids which the government had received for some of the preliminary lots of goods were said to have been opened and discussed by buyers who were "in the know."

If a buyer wished to get a lot of goods on which sealed bids had been received, according to the evidence collected by the government operatives, he would raise the highest bid a fraction of a dollar.

On the day of the sale outside buyers collected from New York, Kansas City, points in Texas and elsewhere. They were unable to buy, however. The freeze-out system is said to have worked perfectly.

With all the goods formally sold, however, the asserted conspirators received a surprise when Camp Kearney officials received an order from Secretary of War Weeks forbidding them to deliver a single dollar's worth of the goods.

The alleged plotters were struck with consternation. None of them dared to flee, because of their heavy business interests here. Two of the weaker members hurried to "get in out of the rain," and made complete confessions implicating the entire clique.

These confessions, with dictaphone transcripts and a volume of evidence will be placed before the federal grand jury Friday.

Even professional snake charmers fight shy of snakes in the grass.

HIGH BASEBALL SEASON OPENS THURSDAY

The first baseball game of the high school season will be played by the team from the Glendale high school on Thursday afternoon in Los Angeles. The team will play the first team from the Los Angeles high school.

Glendale has some good material on its baseball team this year and is expecting to finish the season place close to the top of the league if not in first place. The game with Los Angeles high on Thursday will give Coaches Hayhurst and Butterfield a line-up on the strength of their team as the Los Angeles high school nine is said to be unusually strong this year.

The 130-pound basketball team of the Glendale high school is waiting for the play-off of the Southern California championship. Glendale's team is one of approximately five teams chosen to compete for the title. Glendale's team played an unusually strong game all through the year and is expected to make a good showing in the title matches.

MOVING PICTURE KINDERGARTEN TO OPEN HERE

Charles A. Taylor, who directed Oliver Morosco's "The Halfbreed" at Louis B. Mayer's studio, Los Angeles, has chosen Glendale and its picturesque surroundings for the background of his next production entitled "Old Lavender's Faith," a wonderful story on the order of "The Miracle Man."

Mr. Taylor and Pearl Keller were friends in Seattle where Laurette Taylor got her start in stock at the old Third avenue theatre.

Last Saturday Mr. Taylor made a short talk on the future of the motion picture to the children's class in Pearl Keller studio. He will speak again, possibly Saturday, when he will begin forming a class that will be instructed in the art of appearing before the motion picture camera. Miss Keller is in hopes that Mr. Taylor may find time to form two extra classes at her school—one to teach the art of motion picture acting, and the other dramatic writing and the photoplay and technique of the scenario.

Mr. Taylor has national fame as a dramatist. He has of late years been devoting his time to motion pictures and has become a master of the art. He has bought a home near Sunland where, this summer, he will stage many scenes in "Old Lavender's Faith." D. B. Taylor, Mr. Taylor's father, has just purchased a home at 405 Lomita street in Glendale. Mr. Taylor also has two sisters living in Glendale, and naturally his interests are centered here, which is hoped will be a good thing for both Mr. Taylor and the city of Glendale.

TAG DAY FOR MONTE VISTA

Mrs. R. W. Meeker, head of the local committee which undertook to raise funds for the equipment of the Monte Vista home for under nourished children, established by the Los Angeles Council of Community service with the help of the city and county governments, has been very much embarrassed by the debt of $250 which has been owing on the kitchen equipment which Glendale undertook to provide, other communities having met their obligations in full. It should be said, however, that Glendale's was the biggest, most expensive task.

However, Mrs. Meeker and Mrs. Ella Richardson brought the matter up before the chamber of commerce and Secretary Rhoades proposed to raise the money by a tag day set for Saturday, March 18, promising that the chamber would finance the printing of the tags.

Mrs. Meeker and Mrs. Richardson will head the committee and rally workers for the task which it is hoped will clear Glendale's record in connection with this very worthy institution which every citizen of Los Angeles county should support because of the good work it is doing for ailing children in restoring them to health.

EXECUTIVE BOARD OF BOY SCOUTS HOLD MEETING

A meeting of the executive board of the Glendale district council of boy scouts was held Monday evening, to which members of the council were invited to attend as a forum to consider scout matters of general interest. Present were Charles L. Chandler, president; Roy L. Kent, secretary; Nathan Rigdon, scout commissioner; Charles H. Kline, third vice president; W. C. Wattles, second vice president; L. F. Collins, sixth vice president, and in addition to the officers named the following members: Emil Swanson of Eagle Rock; Frank C. Ayers, R. L. McCourt, Charles H. Toll, and H. V. Henry.

A report was made by the scout commisisoner. The report of the treasurer contained a list of contributors to the budget of the district council and showed that its financies are in a very healthy condition and that the prospects for completing the budget of $45,000 by the end of the month are very good.

Scout Executive Benner submitted a report and record of his activities in connection with scout work.

J. W. Andre and Peter L. Ferry were elected members of the council to represent Catholic interests in the community.

President Chandler read a letter received from Stuart W. French, representing the regional committee and president of the Pasadena council, in regard to the presentation of the charter for 1922.

It was agreed that this presentation should be made a gala night and A. T. Cowan was elected chairman of a committee to provide entertainment for that occasion, assisted by L. F. Collins of Burbank and W. L. Miller of Eagle Rock, the meeting to be held in the auditorium of the Glendale high and attended by all scout leaders, boy scouts and their parents.

A resolution was adopted thanking the California National Guard and Captain Thomas D. Watson for the use of one of the armory rooms as district scout headquarters.

Thanks were also tendered the Glendale Daily Press for pictures taken and published of the initiation of Mayor Robinson as a scout tenderfoot, and for other publicity given, and a similar resolution of thanks was given the Glendale News.

Scout Executive Benner put before the council a motion for the formation of round tables of scout leaders to discuss matters of common interest, which he proposed to organize March 20.

Emil Swanson of Eagle Rock announced an entertainment to be given in that city March 13 at the Central school for the purpose of raising Eagle Rock's quota of the district budget, viz. $500. Glendale's quota is $3000 and Burbank's $1000.

Fashions for Americans

Black Velvet and Cloth of Silver Are Blended in This Frock

Cloth of silver and black velvet are attractively combined in the very smart evening frock shown in the sketch. A tight fitting waist and narrow skirt of the cloth of silver form the general foundation of the frock, panels of velvet laid in soft pleats and cut longer than the underskirt topping the metal cloth skirt, while a very abbreviated bolero jacket of velvet is worn over the cloth of silver bodice. The color combination might, of course, be changed, blue, green or red velvet replacing the black if desired, but as originaly designed, that is in black and silver, the frock was decidedly smart and rather striking.

There continues a determined effort to popularize the long skirt, and it seems very certain that American women, like their French sisters, will wear much longer skirts in the spring than they have for several seasons.

The leg o' mutton sleeve is one of the new spring style features, being sponsored by the same French designer who was responsible for the very wide straight sleeve of the present season. The newest leg o' mutton differs from th old-time sleeve of that name in that the flare or width appears on the under arm rather than on the shoulder. The sleeve by this name first brought out, ever so many years ago, was voluminous on the upper or shoulder part, with a normal line underneath, the whole tapering to the wrist.

Fabric combinations and also lovely color combinations are to be much approved for spring, according to present indications.

JINGLING JAZZ OF THE NEWS

By Bert Marple

The City Council tells us there will be no sick man's hangout,
Within the sacred realms of Sycamore;
The army men are said to have skipped out with just a million,
Some people wonder why it wasn't more.

Some coppers feel it's up to them
to scalp Police Chief Martin,
But few folks know just what it's all about;
The movie kindergarten seems to be the next creation,
Charles Taylor will remove all chance for doubt.

Miss Pankhurst heard the wedding bells peal out their merry music,
The victim being William W. Bell;
Miss Sadler heads the Red Cross work—she'll bandage up the cripples,
"The Silent Call" is at the T. D. L.

The many little sidelights to the Show that the town is wide awake,

I guess;
But if you want to learn just what the active ones are doing,
You'll have to read the Glendale

MYSTERY CLOUDS CHARGES AGAINST CHIEF MARTIN

"Mystery charges," preferred, it is said, by Ira H. Herbert, head of the Glendale Merchants' Patrol, Frank Walker and I. Balthasar, Carl Blix, George Herda and Geo. Delgardo, former policemen, against Chief of Police Martin, were not considered in the public session of the city council last night.

The council took the matter up as a committee of the whole and some of those who were credited with making the charges declined to discuss the nature of the presumed accusations in advance of a statement by the council. It was announced that a public hearing will be held by the council on the matter next Thursday.

After the council meeting last night, Chief Martin issued a statement in which he declared that he was going to clean up Glendale.

Chief Martin declared that he has the support of the leading citizens and business men of Glendale and that he will fight what he terms "the ridiculous charges" to the last ditch.

The charges of Herda and Delgardo, according to the chief, hinge about his sending Jim Mann, a desk sergeant, to El Centro to bring back to Glendale Leroy Armstrong, a prisoner.

"I've been fighting since I was six years old and I'm going to continue fighting until Glendale is cleaned up. I intend to rid the city of petty crooks," said Chief Martin.

COUNCIL SLEUTHS FOR MODEL PAVING

Another side of the question, "What is the best material to be used in street paving—asphalt or cement?" is under investigation today by Mayor Spencer Robinson, Councilmen Kimlin and Davis, and City Manager Reeves. These officials left the city hall this morning to visit a district where asphalt has been used for paving. They were accompanied by a representative of the Standard Oil company.

The Standard Oil company does not do the work of laying the paving, but is interested in the matter from the selling end. The company has an asphalt preparation that it is selling for paving purposes which it claims is more satisfactory tha cement, and is less expensive to the city.

Several weeks ago a similar trip was made by city officials to a district where cement is used for paving. They were accompanied on that trip by a representative of the Portland Cement company, who advocated the use of cement for the work.

Another company that is bending every effort to supply the city with paving material is the Wilhite company. Wilhite paving is said by engineers of the company and others to be a more economical paving than any other material in that it can utilize drift sand that is found in every community and do away with the necessity of importing sand to mix with the paving substance. To illustrate the durability of this material, the members of the city council and other officials were taken on a trip to a section of the harbor boulevard, where this type of paving is installed.

It is said that the section of the Harbor boulevard that is made of Wilhite has been built for three years and running that time has handled more heavy traffic than any other section of highways in Southern California. The officials who inspected it said that the highway at this point is in excellent condition.

Dr. Wilsee Martin, pastor of the Hollywod Methodist church will talk on "Great Men That I Have Known in the Ministry." Harry Henderson, newe general secretary of the Los Angeles Y. M. C. A. will speak on "Great Men I Have Known in the Y. M. C. A."

The singing will be a great feature on the program and will be in charge of Sam Sutherland. A number of men from Glendale have been invited to attend and will assist in interviewing the delegates Sunday morning. The number of delegates is limited to 100 and entertainment will be provided in the homes of Glendale for these boys.

A number of noted moving picture people will be at the Glendale Theatre tonight to pre-view one of their big pictures. Manager Howe doesn't know the name of the picture or who will be on hand, but it is certain the picture will be a hummer, and it is also possible that some of the stars may appear in person on the stage tonight.

SERMON ON JESUS JUDGMENT SUNDAY

Harley G. Preston Talks on Principles Used by the Savious

The principles on which Jesus based his judgment were revealed in the text, Matthew 25: 31-40, which was used for the Sunday morning sermon by Rev. Harley G. Preston at the Pacific Avenue Methodist church. He chose for his sermon topic "The Reckoning of Service."

"In the parable before us, Jesus reveals Himself on the throne of judgment, and He allows us to look into some of the principles on which His judgment is based.

"The first ministry mentioned is the ministry of substance. 'I was an hungered.' There are hungry people and we give them bread.

"It is a very gracious ministry and never to be despised; but do you not think that it is mentioned first because it is the least of the ministries, and because it makes little or no vital demand to speak of upon those rendering the serv ice? When a hungry person came along the roads of Galilee it was the ordinary thing to give him bread. And so it was with one who was faint with thirst in the hot noon; he was taken in as one of the guests of the good man of the house and was offered a refreshing drink from the deep, cool, clean well, which reminds one of the "old, oaken bucket." But the service cost little or nothing, and when the wanderer turned back into the road again the incident was soon forgotten.

"But the Lord mentions a ministry now that is deeper and more exacting. 'I was sick and ye visited me!' Here is a service which makes a vital demand upon the life.

"We can give bread and never miss it. We can give clothing and not miss that. These things cost but little. But to visit the sick costs blood. To give bread and clothing is to give things; to visit the sick is to give yourself. That makes it a higher form of ministry in the kingdom of God. To give things may be a drain upon the purse, but to visit the sick means a drain upon the heart.

"'I was in prison and ye came unto me.' It is one thing to go to the hospital; it is altogether another thing to go to the prison. The sick one wears only the pale seal of weakness; the prisoner wears the scarlet band of shame. The sick have lost their health; the prisoners have lost their character. The sick one is isolated from social activity; the prisoner is exiled from social fellowship. The one is pitied, the other is banned. And, therefore, the visitation of the prisoner is mentioned as the crowning ministry, because it demands a more courageous sympathy and a more daring sacrifice. To be a friend of the fallen is a more noble friendship that merely to be a friend of the sick.

"If Christ had shut himself up with the self-righteous scribes and Pharisees and had held himself aloof from the people who really needed him, he would never have helped and saved the world of people he brought to himself.

"'They marveled that he talked with the woman. If this man were a prophet he would know who and what manner of woman this is that speaketh with him!'

"Yes, this saviour of ours struck a death blow to these cold and staid conventions and he strode across the social barriers to be the friend of those poor captives of sin. They were in prison and he went unto them.

"He was always the friend of those who were down; he befriended the outcasts whom even outcasts threw out. He saw the diamond in the rough, an immortal soul, that priceless gem, though covered with mire and dirt of sin.

"But there was one man who dared anything and everything that he might minister to his imprisoned friend. They might say what they pleased or think as they liked. His purpose was bigger than his peril, and his love was stronger than his fear. He was determined to go to the prison and see his friend. And this is what the apostle says about him: 'The Lord give mercy unto the house of Onesiphorus; for he often refreshed me and was not ashamed of my chain.' That is a great eulogy; indeed, one of the loveliest tributes I know, even in the sacred word. 'He was not ashamed of my chain.' 'I was in prison and ye came unto me.'

"When I started preparing this sermon I came right up against a wall in this: How could I preach about visiting people in prison when I had not done it myself? I preach to myself. That is, if it is possible for a man to be in two places at one time, I imagine myself, at least, right down there with you while I am preaching to you. In other words, I don't want to be asking you to do something I do not do myself. So what about the actual experience of visiting the jail? I found myself almost wishing I had a friend in jail. That is, an acquaintance. I wonder if anyone ever wished that about me?

"I thought of our city jail first. Then they tell me there isn't much of a field along that line here and so I called up a larger jail in our county, where there are 400 or more prisoners, and among them lots of young men. And I find that several religious services are held there Sundays, which is well and good and necessary. Then I find there is an opportunity for practical helpfulness, that of finding employment for these young men when they leave the jail. And in these days when applicants have to give references and account for themselves generally, this is a real problem. In view of the present situation I believe Christ would not only say, 'I was in prison and ye came unto me,' but as well, if all do their duty, 'When I left the prison you met me, and helped me find employment.'

"It's all right to talk religion to them—we should talk more about that—in the right way, of course, but without a practical example of Christ's teaching in the way of service, words do not count.

"Gypsy Smith was holding meetings in New Orleans when I came through a few weeks ago. He saw front line duty with the British soldiers in the late war and said that one night a chaplain was pouring out cups of hot coffee to the walking wounded. A poor fellow came along in bad shape, and the chaplain said, 'I'd like to talk Jesus to you.' The wounded soldier, who had but a few hours to live, almost famishing for a drink, said, 'Chaplain, put Jesus in that cup.' This entire sermon might be built around that soldier's words: 'Put Jesus in that cup.'

"And here stands the teaching of the Master, that wherever there is a child of need or shame, there the saviour stands, and that what is done for the one is done for the other."

EASY TO DARKEN YOUR GRAY HAIR

You can Bring Back Color and Lustre with Sage Tea and Sulphur.

When you darken your hair with Sage Tea and Sulphur, no one can tell, because it's done so naturally, so evenly. Preparing this mixture, though, at home, is mussy and troublesome. At little cost you can buy at any drug store the ready-to-use preparation, improved by the addition of other ingredients, called "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound." You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. By morning all gray hair disappears, and, after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully darkened, glossy and luxuriant.

Gray, faded hair, though no disgrace, is a sign of old age, and as we all desire a youthful and attractive appearance, get busy at once with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound and look years younger.—Advertisement.

THE EVENING STORY

THE COUNTRY HOUSE

(Copyright, 1921, by W. Werner)

Grandmother Brown stood at the window of the third floor city flat and peered down at the heads of the people hurrying to and fro. She glanced across at the gravel roofs of the adjoining buildings and the top of a single tree, and sighed. So this was what it meant to live in the modern city apartment! No friendly greeting from neighboring porches, no exchanging of recipes or favorite dishes, no kitchen calls or afternoon sewing circles! Nothing but roofs for inspiration!

She had been in the city a month and she was sick with longing for the old house where she and her husband had raised their little brood in the simple, healthy life of a country town. The children had married and gone, and when father died they all agreed mother could not stay on alone in the old house. Marcia, the eldest daughter, with her usual efficiency, had closed up the house, nailed a "For Sale" sign on the front door, and carried her mother off to her comfortable apartment where she could enjoy herself and not have a thing to do.

Marcia was a good daughter, and she meant to be kind, but she failed utterly to see her mother's point of view. She gave her the largest room in the flat, and allowed her to clutter it with as many of her personal keepsakes as it would hold, saw to it that she had everything she needed in food and clothes, and went her busy way, believing she had done her whole duty. There was a maid who frowned disapprovingly on grandmother's decision to care for her own room, and the little, compact apartment was kept so immaculate that grandmother herself could find nothing to do. The days seemed endless to the little woman who for forty years had been mistress of a rambling old house and neighbor to half the town, with a hundred calls a day on her time and strength.

Grandmother knew that she never could have endured the days if it had not been for Marcia's seven-year-old boy, Donald. Donald was a Brown, through and through, and grandmother was constantly discovering traits of his grandfather in the manly little lad. She showered all her pent-up affection on him, and to her old eyes he seemed as much out of place in the little flat as a young colt in a pen. Every time he was told to "Hush" and "Remember, you're in a flat," and "Don't stamp in the halls," she longed to transplant him to the old home, where his boyish energies could have free play. On fine days she took him to the parks, but even there she sighed over the restrictions which confronted the little fellow—"Keep off the grass" and "Don't touch the flowers"—necessary to city parks, but so different from the freedom of the country.

As usual, Marcia was away at a club meeting when Donald came home from school. Forgetful of admonitions, he let out a war whoop as grandmother opened the door and, seeing no one but her, he threw his school books to the farthest corner and gave her a bear hug that nearly strangled her.

"What d'ye think, grandmother? I saw two robins, and, whoopee, that means it will soon be vacation!"

"What do you do during the vacation in the city, Donald?" asked his grandmother, while she spread a thick slice of bread with butter and sugar.

"Oh, we play around," said Donald, ruefully. "But everybody drives us off their lawns and now we can't even play in the vacant lots, 'cause we broke a window with a ball. Gee, I wish I had a yard of my own!

That night Marcia's husband announced that he would be leaving for a two-months' trip to Europe in a few weeks and he wanted Marcia to go with him. Suddenly grandmother thought of a plan that made her feel young and eager. When Marcia said they must hurry up and sell the old country house before they went, grandmother said nothing, but she smiled to herself. They took it for granted that she would stay in the flat with Donald and the maid, Katie.

The next day, as soon as Marcia had left for an all-day club meeting, grandmother dressed in her best black suit and slipped out of the house. She boarded the trolley for the suburban town which her her old house. It was a two-hours' ride. Grandmother could hardly wait to get there. She went to the town bank and drew out $3,000 from a private account which she had not mentioned to Marcia, and took it to the real estate office. She was glad now that Marcia had put the house in the hands of a young agent who knew nobody in the place. Marcia expected to have the money from the sale of the house, she knew, in return for keeping her mother. Well, she should have the money, but she, grandmother, would have the house. So Grandmother Brown purchased her own house and had the satisfaction of seeing the hated "For Sale" sign removed from her door. Then she dismissed the agent, went into her house and sat down by the window. From behind the curtains which had been left hanging, she watched the familiar faces of her neighbors passing by, she gloated over the new leaves on the old trees which she and grandfather had planted in the front yard, and she revelled in the airiness of the old high-ceilinged rooms. It was all hers and she knew she would never give it up. Already her busy brain had planned it all out.

When Marcia received the notice of sale she passed the papers over to her mother to sign, saying, "I never thought anyone would pay $3,000 for the old place." Tremblingly grandmother signed the money over to Marcia, who accepted it with a perfunctory "Thank you," and the transaction was complete. Nothing more was said about the mysterious purchaser in the bustle of departure for Europe. Marcia's last words were, "The flat is so cool and quiet. I am sure you and Jack will be comfortable for the summer."

"We're going to have a splendid summer," replied grandmother, who seemed to have grown years younger in the last week.

When the taxi sped away grandmother let Donald into her secret. Then they asked Katie how she would like a summer in the country; and when she found she had a cousin who lived near the old house she gleefully agreed to go. The very next day the happy trio walked into the old house and took possession of it. That night a sleppy little boy snuggled down in a great feather bed and listened to the astonishing pranks his mother and uncle and aunt had played in that very room.

When grandmother kissed him good night he said sleepily: "And I can pick flowers and climb trees and run on the grass and yell whenever I want to. I think houses are best for grandmothers and little boys, don't you?"

When Donald's parents returned home unexpectedly early and traced the runaways to the country, Donald had grown into such a rosy, husky, independent boy that his father agreed that houses were best for little boys and that grandmother should keep the old place and Donald should spend his vacations with her. He laughed at his mother-in-law's transaction of buying her own house, and insisted on returning the $3,000 and providing a companion for the mistress of the house. He said it would be worth it to him for Donald's sake.

TRACING THE ESKIMO

HALIFAX, N. S., March 4.—Thirty-three skeletons of Eskimos from the Mackenzie river area have arrived and will be sent to Dalhousie University, where they will be measured and studied for Canadian government by Dr. John Cameron. The skeletons were collected by the Arctic exploration expedition sent out by the government. They represent the Eskimo tribes inhabiting Hehschel Island and the coastal region between Point Barrow and Coronation Gulf. This is north of the Indian country. The exact ethnological status of the Eskimos, it is believed, will be determined. Anthropologists agree they are of Asiatic origin.

"You better let me write you a policy for $5000."

"I guess not."

"Life is very uncertain. You knew Brown, didn't you? I wrote a $5000 policy for him only six weeks before he was killed in an explosion."

"Well, that argument cuts no figure with me. Brown always was a good deal luckier than I am."

HER WANTS GET OVER AT GLENDALE

"Whatever She Wants," the latest Fox picture starring Eileen Percy, the versatile comedienne who always gets a laugh and a "come again" from every local film fan, will be seen today at the Glendale Theatre.

The new Percy picture is a wholesome comedy drama, packed to the brim with fun of a good clean sort and plenty of live action. It supplies an ideal role for Miss Percy.

Clever acting, splendid photography, elaborate sets which please the esthetic senses of the beholders, combine to make this Fox picture a triumph in comedy drama. Edgar Franklin wrote the story.

SILVER AGES OLD

BUENOS AIRES, (By Mail to the United Press).—A section hand working on the new railroad line between Salta and Huatinquina the other day cursed as his pick unexpectedly struck something solid and rebounded. But when he had dug around the obstacle it was discovered to be a chunk of pure silver weighing over 60 pounds. It is thought that probably the silver was lost, perhaps hundreds of years ago, from the back of a mule when being transported through the bleak Andes mountains from far away Peru.

GIRL'S TEMPERATURE 115.

BRISTOL, Eng., March 4.—A temperature of 115 degrees registered by a girl "flu" patient here is to be the subject of a report to medical authorities. A local doctor, called to the case, found her temperature to be 115. Believing his thermometer wrong, he tried two others with the same result. Special treatment was given and the temperature declined to normal. It rose again to 108, declined to normal and rerose to 114. The girl is now convalescent.

RESOLUTION OF INTENTION NO 1411

A RESOLUTION OF THE COUNCIL OF THE CITY OF GLENDALE DECLARING ITS INTENTION TO IMPROVE A PORTION OF SAN FERNANDO ROAD BETWEEN VINE STREET AND PACIFIC AVENUE IN THE CITY OF GLENDALE, AND DESCRIBING THE DISTRICT TO BE ASSESSED TO PAY THE COSTS AND EXPENSES OF SAID IMPROVEMENT OTHER THAN THAT PORTION OF THE COSTS AND EXPENSES TO BE PAID AND PAID OUT OF THE CITY TREASURY OF SAID CITY.

Be IT RESOLVED BY THE COUNCIL OF THE CITY OF GLENDALE:

SECTION 1. That the public interest and convenience require and it is the intention of the Council of the City of Glendale to order the following improvement to be done, to-wit:

First: That a four (4) inch Class "B" cast iron water pipe be laid in San Fernando Road, along a line parallel to and nineteen (19) feet southwesterly from the northeasterly line of San Fernando Road, said pipe to extend southeasterly from a point twenty-four (24) feet north of the westerly prolongation of the southerly line of Vine Street to a point in the westerly prlongation of a line drawn forty-three (43) feet southerly from and parallel to the southerly line of Tract No. 2802, as the same is recorded in Book 28, Page 79 of Maps, Records of Los Angeles County; California; said 4-inch pipe to extend thence easterly from the last mentioned point along said westerly prolongation, and along said line drawn forty-three (43) feet southerly from and parallel to the southerly line of said Tract No. 2802, to a point seventy (70- feet east of the southerly prolongation of the southwesterly line of said Tract No. 2802. That a six (6) inch Class "B" cast iron water pipe be laid easterly from the last mentioned point, along said line drawn forty-three (43) feet southerly from and parallel to the southerly line of said Tract No. 2802, and along the easterly prolongation of said line to a point twenty-two (22) feet westerly from the southerly prolongation of the easterly line of Pacific Avenue, together with all connections, valves fire hydrants and appurtenances, all as shown on Plan No. 102-P and Profiles No. 818 and No. 606, said pipe and appurtenances to be used for fire protection and the distribution of the municipal water supply of the City of Glendale.

Said pipe shall be laid in accordance with said Plan and Profiles and between the points on the lines and grades and at the elevations designated thereon, and said pipe connections, valves, fire hydrants and appurtenances shall be constructed in accordance with the Plans and Profiles therefor, designated as Plan No. 448, Plan No. 439, Plan No. 102-P, Profiles No. 818 and No. 606, and in accordance with Specifications therefor, adopted by the Council of the City of Glendale and designated as Specifications No. 42 for furnishing and laying cast iron water pipe in the City of Glendale.

SECTION 2. That said contemplated work or improvement in the opinion of said Council is of more than local or ordinary public benefit and will affect and benefit the lands and district hereinafter described, and said Council hereby declares that the district in said City of Glendale benefitted by said work or improvement and to be assessed to pay the costs and expenses thereof, other than that portion of the costs and expenses thereof that is to be paid out of the City Treasury as hereinafter specified, is all that portion of said City included within the following exterior boundary lines, to-wit:

Beginning at the northeasterly corner of Lot 24, Block Q of the Glendale Valley View Tract, as the same is recorded in Book 9, Page 157 of Maps, Records of Los Angeles County, California; thence southerly along the easterly line of said Lot 24 to the northerly line of Lot 1 of Riverdale Heights, as the same is recorded in Book 4, Page 1 of Maps, Records of Los Angeles County, California; thence easterly along the northerly line of said Lot 1 to the easterly line thereof; thence southerly along the easterly line of Lots 1 and 2 of said Riverdale Heights to the southerly line of said Lot 2; thence westerly along the southerly line of said Lot 2 to the easterly line of Lot 3 of said Riverdale Heights; thence southerly along the easterly line of said Lot 3 to the northerly line of Riverdale Drive; thence southerly in a direct line across Riverdale Drive to the northeasterly corner of Lot 1 of Tract No. 2802, as the same is recorded in Book 28, Page 79 of Maps, Records of Los Angeles County, California; thence southerly along the easterly line of said Lot 1 to the northerly line of Lot 9 of said Tract No. 2802; thence easterly along the northerly line of said Lot 9 to the westerly line of Lot 52 of said Riverdale Heights, as the same is recorded in Book 4, Page 1 of Maps, Records of Los Angeles County, California; thence southerly along the westerly line of said Lot 52 of said Riverdale Heights to the northerly line of Lot 51 of said Riverdale Heights; thence easterly along the northerly line of Lots 51, 49 and 47 of said Riverdale Heights to the westerly line of Pacific Avenue; thence easterly in a direct line across Pacific Avenue along the easterly prolongation of the northerly line of said Lot 47, to the easterly line of Pacific Avenue; thence southerly along the easterly line of Pacific Avenue to the southwesterly corner of Lot 20 of J. W. Imler's Replat as per map recorded in Book 10, Page 35 of Maps, Records of Los Angeles County, California; thence southerly in a direct line to the intersection of the westerly line of San Fernando Road and the southerly line of Lot 12, Watts Subdivision of a portion of the Rancho San Rafael, as the same is recorded in Book 5, Page 200 of the Miscellaneous Records of Los Angeles County, California; thence westerly along the southerly line of said Lot 12 to the northeasterly right of way line of the Southern Pacific Railroad; thence northwesterly along said northeasterly right of way line to the westerly prolongation of the northerly line of Vine Street; thence southeasterly in a direct line across San Fernando Road and Vine Street, intersecting therewith, to the point of beginning, excepting therefrom any portion of any public street which may be included within the above described district. Reference is hereby made to Plan No. 102PA, approved by the City Council, in which the assessment district referred to is shown within red colored border lines.

SECTION 3. That pursuant to the Act of the Legislature of the State of California, approved February 27, 1893, and the Acts amendatory thereto, serial bonds bearing interest at the rate of 7 per cent per annum shall be issued to represent assessments of Twenty-five ($25.00) Dollars or over for the costs of said work or improvement, not paid out of the City Treasury, as hereinafter specified; said serial bonds shall extend over a period ending nine (9) years from and after the second day of January next succeeding the date of said bonds, and an even annual proportion of the principal sum thereof shall be payable by coupon on the second day of January, every year after their date until the whole is paid; and the interest shall be payable semi-annually by coupon on the second days of January and July, respectively, of each year, at the rate of 7 per cent per annum on all sums unpaid until the whole of said principal and interest is paid.

SECTION 4. The City Engineer is directed to make a diagram of the property affected or benefitted by the proposed work or improvement, as described in this Resolution of Intention and to be assessed to pay the cost and expense thereof. Such diagram shall show each separate lot, piece or parcel or land and the relative location of the same to the work proposed to be done, all within the limits of the assessment district.

SECTION 5. The Council of the City of Glendale hereby orders that Three Hundred and Twenty ($320) Dollars of the costs and expenses of said work or improvement referred to in this Resolution of Intention shall be paid out of the City Treasury from the "1921 Election Water Bond Fund," which fund is hereby designated as the fund from which such costs and expenses are to be paid.

SECTION 6. All Maps and Profiles referred to in this Resolution are on file in the office of the City Engineer of said City. All Specifications referred to in this Resolution are on file in the office of the City Clerk of said City. Said Maps, Profiles and Specifications are hereby referred to for a more particular description of said work, and made a part hereof.

SECTION 7. The Glendale Daily Press, a daily newspaper of general circulation, published and circulated in said City of Glendale, is hereby designated as the newspaper in which this Resolution of Intention shall be published in the manner and by the persons required by law, and in which the Street Superintendent shall publish notice of the passage of this Resolution.

SECTION 8. The Street Superintendent of said City of Glendale is hereby directed to post notices of the passage of this Resolution in the manner and in the form required by law, and to cause a similar notice to be published by two insertions in said newspaper in the manner required by law.

SECTION 9. The City Clerk of the said City of Glendale is hereby directed to post this Resolution of Intention conspicuously for two days on or near the chamber door of the said Council, and to cause the same to be published by two insertions in the manner required by law, in said newspaper, and also to mail to each property owner whose property is to be assessed to pay the costs and expenses of said improvement, a postal card containing notice of the passage of this Resolution, and calling attention to the fact that said property is to be assessed for said improvement.

Adopted and approved this 2nd day of March, 1922.

MUSIC AND TRACK MEET FEATURE HIGH WEEK

"Oxy" Club to Give Concert and the Meet Is With Burbank

With a special assembly scheduled for Friday by the "Big G" club, a practice track meet with Burbank Tuesday, the program of recreation at the high school for the week is fairly interesting.

The "Oxy" glee club has been secured for a special assembly at Glendale high Friday, under the auspices of the "Big G" club. This is an organization of boys who have won the "G" by reason of their participation in inter-school, athletic activities, baseball, basketball, track work, tennis, etc. The club numbers about 15. Its meetings are subject to call.

A practice track meet will be held Tuesday afternoon at Burbank by students of Glendale high and Burbank high. This is in preparation for the big track meets at the end of the month.

All the teachers of Glendale high who have been out on account of "flu" or other illness are now recovered and at work again.

The dramatic recital and reading which was to have been given at a special assembly at Glendale high by Mrs. Lilian Burkhardt Goldsmith, has been indefinitely postponed because of her illness of "flu."

The basketball contest between boys of Glendale Hi-Y and a team from the Long Beach Hi-Y, planned for last Saturday night in the local high school gym, did not come off because the Long Beach boys had trouble in arranging transportation and found they could not get here in time. Two teams of the Hi-Y were therefore organized and played in the gym, afterwards having supper at the First Methodist church.

P. E. RIGHTS IN GLENDALE OUTLINED

Huntington Land & Improvement company, and others owned same.

"After Glendale became a city, and after the city of Tropico became a city, it was necessary for the railway company to obtain a franchise for extensions, and I find that certain franchise ordinances have been adopted, which ordinances contain the franchise rights upon all of the extensions, and proposed extensions, of the Pacific Electric Railway company since the time Glendale and Tropico became cities.

"Said ordinances are as follows: Ordinance No. 70 of the city of Tropico; ordinance No. 33 of the city of Glendale; ordinance No. 207 of the city of Glendale; ordinance No. 217 of the city of Glendale; ordinance No. 283 of the city of Glendale.

"There are no extra copies of the ordinances above referred to in the files of the city. I have not read the originals, and do not desire to delay this report until copies of said ordinances can be furnished me by the city clerk. A reference to these ordinances, I assume, will be sufficient until the copies from the originals can be made and attached hereto.

"The history of the grade crossings in Glendale is embodied in a letter, dated February 21, 1922, addressed to me from Mr. Frank Karr, second vice-president and chief counsel of the Pacific Electric railway. This letter also calls attention to the condition of the crossing at Gardena avenue and should be called to your attention. I therefore embody said letter in this report. It is as follows:

"'Mr. Bert P. Woodard, City Attorney of Glendale.

"'710 Haas Bldg., Los Angeles.

"'Dear Sir: The following is a history of the crossings in Glendale, as I have been able to unearth it so far; starting at the first crossing east of the Southern Pacific, Gardena avenue, unlawfully opened by the city of Glendale during the week ending February 18, 1922. With reference to this crossing, I desire to call your attention and the attention of the city council to the fact that n 1921 the Pacific Electric Railway company stated to the city of Glendale it had no objection to the opening of this crossing in the regular way, and in that behalf executed and forwarded to the city of Glendale an easement for such crossing, which easement only required, to make it effective, the execution thereof by the city of Glendale, and the order of the railroad commission authorizing the crossing.

"'Under date of May 7, 1921, Mr. Hartley Shaw, city attorney of Glendale, wrote to this company stating that the city was unwilling to accept the easement as drawn, and that unless we were willing to change the same he would have to submit the whole matter to the railroad commission. Under date of June 1, 1921, I addressed a letter to Mr. Hartley Shaw, city attorney of Glendale, stating that we were willing to execute the easement upon the city's paying the initial cost of construction of the highway and the expense of installing whatever safety devices might be required by the railroad commission. We heard nothing further from your city until the latter part of last week, when some one, acting under the direction of the city, placed this crossing, which appears to me, from the casual glance I gave it yesterday in passing, to be of a temporary character, consisting largely of crushed rock thrown on the railway road in the way of the prolonged side lines of the street.

"'In my opinion, the placing of this crossing without lawful authority and thereby, in a way, inviting the unwary to travel on it, is a more serious thing than might appear upon the surface. The crossing in question is not a highway. The city of Glendale has not complied with the provisions of section 13 of article 1 of the constitution of California. The provisions of section 43 of the public utilities act of the state of California have been violated by your city in forcibly laying the rock in place.

"'No provision has been made by your city to have signs placed calling attention to the unwary that a dangerous railroad crossing exists at the point in question. We cannot take these precautions and thus participate in an unlawful act and make ourselves liable for the penalties imposed by the statutes made and provided. The law governing our actions in the matter as I see it is of a licensee or at the most an invitee and our liability and duty is only to the extent of not deliberately harming an unwary person who gets in the way. If any person or property is damaged at this unlawful crossing, they will have no recourse against the Pacific Electric company, and I am not so sure but what the city of Glendale would be the one to be held liable.

"'I do not desire to be placed in the position of volunteering information as to the conduct of the city affairs of Glendale, but I am in a very disturbed frame of mind as to the result that may come from your action. It seems to me that the quick way to remedy the evil that has been done would be for the city to execute the easement now in its possession and immediately file an application with the railroad commission asking the authority of that constitutional body for the installation of this crossing and the opening up of the highway across the railroad. So much for Gardena avenue.

"'San Fernando road is open and paved; Cerritos street is not open; Eulalia street is not open; Laurel street is not open; Los Feliz road is open and paved; Cypress street is open and paved; Magnolia avenue is not open; Palmer avenue is not open; Park avenue is open and paved; Acacia street is not open; Garfield street is not open; Windsor road is open; Maple avenue, Chestnut street, Lomita avenue and Elk avenue are open and paved; from Colorado street (formerly Sixth street) north to California avenue (formerly Second street), to the right-of-way, has been opened up for vehicular traffic; Lexington drive (formerly First street) is open and paved; Doran street is open and paved; Milford street is not open; Burchett street is not open. At Burchett street there is a crossing that has been used for some time, but it is not a highway.

"'As I stated yesterday, the power undoubtedly lies with the city of Glendale to acquire by appropriate proceedings the right-of-way to install streets across the railroad at all of the places where cross streets end in east and west Brand boulevard, but it has been our hope in recent years that such action would not be taken by the city in advance of a compelling public necessity, as each additional grade crossing is an additional place where grade crossing accidents are liable to occur, and in these days of motor vehicle transit crossings within 1000 or 1500 feet of each other are found to meet a reasonable public necessity.

"'When you and your city engineer develop your ideas as to just what the desires of the city are, with reference to additional crossings and with reference to the lowering of tracks at certain streets or the bringing up of the adjacent streets to the grade of tracks, we will be glad to consult with you further. The objection, as I stated, on our part to making these additions and betterments is largely involved by financial and safety matters. Under the uniform classification of accounts as prescribed by the interstate commerce commission a considerable portion of this work involves the securing of new capital and it is to that extent not a charge to operating expenses. If any change is contemplated, the matter of maintaining the railroad at a sufficient height above the adjacent street to insure adequate drainage is important, otherwise, large and unnecessary operating costs are accumulated, which, as you know, should not be permitted if proper precautions are taken in the original construction. If we can arrive at an agreement as to the division of expenses and submit the matter to the railroad commission as an agreed matter we can undoubtedly procure a quick decision. It is our view of the law that we cannot violate the provisions of section 43 of the public utilities act and that whatever we agree upon should be confirmed by an order of that body.

"'If your engineer desires a copy of the profile of our railroad through Glendale, he can procure a copy of the same by calling upon our chief engineer, Mr. E. C. Johnson, who will be pleased to prepare a copy for him.

"'If this letter is not clear, I will be glad to look up and furnish for you any additional information you may indicate.

"'Yours truly,

"'FRANK KARR.'

"The crossings listed in the above letter as open, are also dedicated.

"There are a number of easements which have been given to the city from time to time by the Pacific Electric railway for different crossings in the city of Glendale. They have all been recorded and they are, or should be, on file in the office of the city clerk. There appears to be no systematic file or index for these documents, but the city clerk proposes eventually to fully index and systematically file all deeds and easements to the end that the history of any crossing and the right granted to the city in same, can be readily ascertained. If there is any particular crossing in the city of Glendale about which you desire special information one of the title companies could furnish a reference thereto, and a copy thereof could then be obtained from the city recorder.

"The City of Glendale has an easement over the 15-foot private alley at the rear of the Pacific Electric depot, for light and power poles only. The 15-foot strip upon which so much switching is now done by the Pacific Electric railway, was deeded either to it or one of its predecessors in interest, and the rights of said railroad in said alley are practically the same as the rights of the railroad on its private right-of-way on Brand boulevard. I have a partial list of deed references, one of which is the deed conveying said 15-foot strip to said railway.

"The franchise of the Pacific Electric railway to run its tracks from the main line of Brand boulevard into and across Broadway to said alley above referred to, is set forth in one of the ordinances hereinabove referred to.

"When the above mentioned ordinances are copied, I desire three copies thereof, one for my files, one for the railroad committee of the chamber of commerce and the other to furnish to the Brand Boulevard Improvement association."

BRITISH HOLDERS OF ECONOMY BONDS ARE CALLED

Englishmen Owning Pre-War Bonds Should See Consul

British subjects in California, Nevada, Utah and Arizona owning bonds of Austrian and Hungarian unsecured pre-war debts, have until next Wednesday to communicate regarding their collection with the British consulate general, San Francisco, according to advices received from the consulate by F. H. Chapman, manager of the foreign department, Los Angeles Trust & Savings Bank.

The American department of state is attempting to notify all and who have not previously notified the department to that effect, to write to the secretary of state, Washington, D. C., requesting copies of the circular and blank form giving information and the procedure to be followed in sending those bonds in for collection. The federal department of state suggests that nationals of the United States owning bonds should submit them not later than March 31.

FEEDING OF 5000 LESSON SUBJECT

Interesting Talk on Feast of the Desert to Men's Class

The men's Bible class of the Presbyterian church, held in the city hall, Sunday morning, is gradually increasing. There were 100 men present Sunday and under the leadership of Keith L. Brooks they studied a most interesting lesson. An outline follows:

"In Matthew 14, we have the familiar story of the feeding of the five thousand. 'When it was evening, Christ's disciples came unto him, saying, This is a desert place, and the time is now past; send the multitude away that they may go into the villages and buy themselves victuals.' Many Christians today, like these disciples, are wont to measure the situation with calculating eyes and tell the Lord what to do. It is the old story of passing the buck to some one else. Very often, the suggestion that comes to us when we are face to face with a desperate need on the part of other people, is to repudiate our own personal responsibility. We are ever looking for a short way out of perplexity. We say, 'Let the town pump look after it,' or 'Send the fellow to the preacher.' 'The time is now past; this is not just the opportune time to make any large attempt.' And thus we hope to save our own loaves and fishes. But if we would look to Jesus Christ, how quickly would He brush aside our flimsy excuses and make us feel like 30 cents.

"We then read of how the great miracle was performed and the five thousand people were fed. This is the only miracle narrated in all four gospels. In John's account the story prepares the way for the memorable discourse on the bread of life. We are, therefore, warranted in regarding the miracle as a symbolical revelation of Christ as supplying the spiritual needs of the world. We see that the supernaturally given bread of life is to be carried over the world in accordance with the ordinary laws by which all other truth is diffused. This we learn from the manner in which the bread was handed by Christ to His disciples and then distributed to the multitude. We talk about the divine element in the word of God but we have a personal duty in the matter that is very plain. Christ gave to the disciples. They gave to the multitude. That is His method with the gospel.

"'They all did eat and were filled.' This reminds us of the satisfying power of the true gospel and of its universal adaptation. Why is it so? Simply because it addresses itself to the universal condition of the human heart. Christianity is not a class religion. It has exactly the same effect upon all races and all classes, no matter under what conditions they may live. It satisfies the deepest needs of the human heart. 'They took up of the fragments that remained twelve baskets full,' much more than they had to begin with. Here we see Christ's perfect benevolence contrasted with perfect economy. We see, too, that those who serve the bread of life are the ones who have the most abundant portion for themselves. This is a principle often true in material things, but always true in spiritual things. The condition of greater increase in spiritual blessings is diffusion. It is this refusal to be used in the service of Christ and to be witnesses of His salvation that accounts very largely for the low spiritual state of many in the churches today. Let us remember as Christians that we have received this bread, not merely for our own use, but to be distributed to others; and it is only in the giving of it out that we have the fullest blessing for ourselves and may be saved from becoming spiritual dyspeptics.

WORE ONLY EARINGS

BERLIN, March 4. — The local purity campaign has begun, and Lola Bach will wear clothes for the next month at least. Fraulein Bach and her troupe of dancers, who have aroused all sorts of sensations in a cabaret, were in the police court. Fraulein Bach was given a month's imprisonment and her assistants were fined after a purity worker had testified they wore only earrings in addition to the charms Nature gave them.

HALLAM OPPOSES KELLOGG FOR TOGA IN MINNESOTA

Former Trust Buster Has Hot Contest for Senatorial Seat

WASHINGTON, March 6.—Everybody remembers how, a few short years ago, the trusts were busted. And even in this time when fame is fleeting, many will recall that Frank B. Kellogg was known as "the Trust Buster," and was hailed and acclaimed as a friend of the common pee-pul.

Came a day, alack, when all the trusts were completely "bust"; when the pee-pul were completely free of the thralldom of the big, bad interests—policeman, put that man out; he laughed.

Well, anyway, there came a day when there was no more trust busting. And the grateful pee-pul rewarded their peerless champion by sending him to the United States senate. They remembered how, as a boy on a farm in Minnesota, or somewhere, he got up at 4 or 5 or 6 o'clock, not only, as Harry Lauder says, in the good old summer time, but all the time, and after putting in a fairly busy day of eleven or twelve hours spent the rest of his time improving his mind. Here, they said, was a man who was one of them, a horny-handed son of toil, and smart into the bargain.

The state of Minnesota selected itself to honor Kellogg with a senatorship. And now, in the passing of time, Kellogg again seeks from his state a seat in the senate. And what do you suppose some of them are saying about him?

They say he isn't close enough to the common people. They say he has forgotten what it is to get up at dawn and milk the cows, or whatever it is one does at such an hour.

And they have set out to beat him for the Republican senatorial nomination and thus retire him to private life.

Judge Oscar Hallam of the Minnesota supreme court is the leader around whom the anti-Kellogg forces rally. Judge Hallam, they assert, is closer to the people, to the dirt farmers, and the folks whose chief function appears to be paying the taxes. Kellogg, they say, has had his turn, and should let someone else try conclusions with Washington's climate, profiteers and other natural and acquired disadvantages.

Under this sort of thing does Kellogg wilt? Not he! He steps out and as a member of the senate farm bloc tries to prove to his people that he has their interests as closely at heart as ever. He took a leading part in getting the farmers' co-operative marketing bill through the senate, and that, his senatorial friends say, ought to help him some.

There are some, in the senate and elsewhere, who have been moved to remark, apropos of this very bill, that it is a strange commentary on the times that the man who once gained fame as trust buster should hope to help his political fortunes by advocating a bill which would exempt organizations from the anti-trust laws. Some, in fact, have characterized the co-operative bill, in the form in which it passed the senate, as the charter of the greatest combination, trust and monopoly ever created.

LITTLE GIRL LOST WANDERS TO CITY

Ruth McCarthy, Found by Ralph Davis, Is Returned to Parents

Lost and wandering around the streets of Glendale Sunday afternoon, Little Ruth McCarthy of Los Angeles was found by Ralph Davis, 33 West Garfield street. Mr. Davis found her playing on Central avenue just south of Broadway. He turned her over to Harry W. Keas, of Los Angeles, who took her to the police station in his machine.

The little girl told Chief Martin that her name was McCarthy and where she lived. The Los Angeles police were notified and they in turn notified the parents of the whereabouts of the child. Chief Martin took the girl home with him and kept her there until the father was notified and called for her.

Her father said that the child had been missing since morning. She is about 7 years old and started home from church alone. She never arrived and the parents were searching for her when notified by the Los Angeles police.

Healing Cream Stops Catarrh

Clogged Air Passages Open at Once—Nose and Throat Clear.

If your nostrils are clogged and your head stuffed because of catarrh or a cold, get Ely's Cream Balm at any drug store. Apply a little of this pure, antiseptic, germ destroying cream into your nostrils and let it penetrate through every air passage of your head and membranes. Instant relief.

How good it feels. Your head is clear. Your nostrils are open. You breathe freely. No more hawking or snuffling. Head colds and catarrh yield like magic. Don't stay stuffed up, choked up and miserable. Relief is sure.—Adv.

Foley's Friendly Fancies

JAMES W. FOLEY

AN EVERY DAY RELIGION

It's an every day religion; hasn't much of form o creed;
But it's got as much, I reckon, as most real religions need.
It's got warmth of friendship in it and it's got the outstretched hand,
And not any more of doctrine than you'll clearly understand.
It's got music, light and gladness; music of the friendly speech,
Light for looking in dark places, that pure doctrine might not reach;
And the gladness for a chance to help some traveler on the way—
It's not hard to understand—it's just a thing of every day.

It's an every day religion; it's an easy one to find;
For the soul of it is friendly and the heart of it is kind.
And its notion of a Heaven may not be exactly clear,
But it wishes it could find a way to bring some Heaven here.
It's about the same on Monday or on any other day
Of the week as on a Sunday, and it works out the same way;
It's not much on this damnation stuff; it has more gratitude,
And its best way to salvation is to do a lot of good.

It's an every day religion; it believes the finest prayer
Is a hand outstretched to help us and a simple crust to share;
It has song and laughter in it, and when there is light and song,
It believes in sharing blessings and in passing them along.
It is not the kind of thinking that's so blessed full of creed
That it fills the bins with straw and chaff and misses all the
It believes in singing, working, helping, kindness—all that stuff;
It's an every day religion, but I guess it's good enough.

POLICE MATRON HAS CAMERA EYES

Mrs. Richardson Recognizes Chum of 35 Years Ago

Recognizing an old school chum after 34 years is the remarkable feat performed by Police Matron Mrs. W. F. Richardson the other day. Her old school and girlhood chum, Mrs. Charles Works, of Detroit, Mich., wrote to her and said that she was coming to Glendale for a visit and asked Mrs. Richardson to meet her in Los Angeles at the Santa Fe station. She told her how she would be dressed.

Mrs. Richardson went to the station to meet her friend but when the train arrived it was dark and the color of clothing could not be seen. As the passengers left the shed Mrs. Richardson scanned them one by one and after a few moments she saw her friend coming along the walk. With a glad cry she rushed to meet her and a reunion of old friends was held there in the Santa Fe station.

Mrs. Richardson said that her friend, with whom she went to school as a girl and later taught school at the same time, had not changed a bit in the past 34 years since they last met. Mrs. Works will spend the winter here.

WHISKEY AT MONTE CARLO

MONTE CARLO, March 4.—A delegation of guests headed by Americans yesterday protested to the management of a hotel at Menton, near here, against the price of whiskey. The hotel bar charged 12 francs, now one dollar, for the traditional "three fingers." "What's the use of leaving America?" indignantly queried the leader of the delegation. The price was reduced to six francs.

Mrs. Harry Payne Whitney said at one of her brilliant studio teas: "English servants are very satisfactory; but some time their queer accent causes trouble. I know a girl sculptor with a studio in Chelsea. She said hungrily to her English cook one day at luncheon time: "Did you heat up that veal and ham pie as I told you to, Agnes?'

"'Yes, miss, thank you miss,' said Agnes.

"'All right,' said the girl sculptor, licking her chops, 'serve it for lunch, please.'

"'But, 'ow can I, miss,' said Agnes, 'when I've het it up?'"

Don't think that because hope makes a good breakfast it will make a satisfactory supper.

TUJUNGA SCHOOL IS GROWING RAPIDLY

Tentative Plans for T. N. T. Club Building Are Prepared

TUJUNGA, March 7.—A school is regarded as an excellent barometer of the growth of a community. That Tujunga is growing almost too rapidly for its own comfort or convenience is shown by the overcrowded condition of the school. At a meeting of the school board with the teachers on Monday night it was found necessary to order new desks and tables to provide for the surplus pupils. In some of the rooms several of the new pupils have been forced to sit two in a seat or to stand up while studying. The board also ordered the installation of four new drinking fountains in addition to the two already in service.

In response to a communication from the Monte Vista Post, American Legion, in regard to Americanization day, to be held on April 30, the teachers were instructed to prepare suitable exercises for the day. It has been found that the joint meetings of the board and teachers have been a great help to both bodies, and it is the intention of the board to continue them during the coming year.

The regular business meeting of the T. N. T. club will be held tonight in the basement of the church. Officers have been elected and new members are being received at every meeting. At a meeting of the executive committee and a committee from the church board held Sunday evening, tentative plans for a contract between the club and the church as regards a building were formed. As the matter now stands the club is to erect and control a building to be put up on the property owned by the church just west of the church building. Arrangements for its use by the church are to be worked out. Plans call for a building with a frontage of 30 fet on El Centro and 60 feet deep, with a basement under half of the building. A stage is to occupy one end, with the rest fitted up with gymnasium equipment. Plans are under way for an entertainment by the club in the near future, the proceeds from which are to be added to the building fund.

Mr. and Mrs. Wallace M. Morgan entertained at dinner on Sunday evening for Mr. and Mrs. E. P. Wieman, who are here on a visit to Mr. Wieman's mother. Mr. Wieman, who is connected with the Union Oil company has recently been transferred to Long Beach from Mexico, where he was general field superintendent for the company.

A business meeting of the Quien Sabe club will be held on Friday evening at the home of Alice Kelly on Walnut street. The spring activities of this club are now under way and great things are promised for the coming year.

Tickets for the event are on sale at the Sport Shop, 146 South Brand.

"SILENT CALL" IS AT T. D. & L. TODAY

Here's a special notice!

H. O. Davis presents one of the most unusual offerings of motion pictures in "The Silent Call," the Laurence Trimble-Jane Murfin production released through Associated First National Pictures, Inc., which will be at the T. D. and L. Theatre today and tomorrow.

Practically all the scenes are laid in the High Sierra mountains of Northern California.

This is a story that thrills with action and grips every moment. You've probably read it. It's Hal G. Evarts', "The Cross Pull," published originally in the Saturday Evening Post. Jane Murfin did the adaptation and Laurence Tremble directed.

In addition to the "Silent Call" numerous other attractions are offered, such as Kinograms, "Save Your Carfare," and the special comedy, "Hokus Pokus."

Those from Glendale who attended a dinner party Saturday night given at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Spindle, Los Angeles, in honor of Harry H. Powers, Jr., were Frank Friedman, Miss Lillian Marten, Mr. and Mrs. Harry H. Powers, Jr. The affair was in honor of the 30th birthday of Mr. Powers.

THE T·D·L THEATRE PRESENTS

TODAY AND TOMORROW
"The Silent Call"

A GIRL
—a wonderful girl flung from city-ease to the mountain wilderness.

A MAN
—a splendid man among strange men. A figure of power in this great love drama of the wilds.

One of the biggest pictures you will ever see.

A DOG
—pulling between the blood-call of the wolf and dog-devotion.

It is still standing them out in L. A. and has done so for five weeks.
